snap streak

Wilmington's Joe Spencer (40) moves in to make a tackle as teammate Sean Hanafin (83) is ready to help out during Saturday's 14-6 victory over Central Catholic in the league opener for both teams. The victory snapped an 11 game WHS losing streak over two seasons. See story, other photos on page 16 of the sports section.

Emotions run high at 774 hearing

by Arlene Surprenant

During a meeting that at times was reduced to emotional outbursts and personal attacks, the Wilmington Board of Appeals agreed to continue a hearing on the town's second 774 condominium project.

The board Tuesday night agreed to a request by developer Jay Tighe to delay a decision on a comprehensive permit for Shawheen River Estates until all information is available. The extension would allow representatives from the Massachusetts Housing Finance Agency to visit the site prior to project approval and would afford time to complete an Environmental Impact Report, something which would take anywhere from four weeks to a year, depending on who you believe.

Though several professionals accompanied Tighe and helped him present his proposal, many in the crowd pointed out there were too many unanswered questions and contradictions.

"You've come in with so many 'I don't have the answers yet.' You've come, in my estimation, very unprepared," said Harold Avenue resident Helen Sears.

Others tried to clarify such things as exact acreage on site and the number of children expected to live in the development with attorney Carol Rolf. This led to some confusion on statistics. At one point Rolf admitted more study was needed since the applicant wasn't sure of state requirements.

The two biggest issues of the night were project density and access to the property.

Rolf explained the applicant will seek several "modifications" from town bylaws, the most important being an increase in density from the three units per acre allowed under PRD zoning to 10 to 12 units per acre.

During a discussion on the need for alternate housing in Wilmington, Tighe said over 100 people have approached him seeking to purchase a unit and move back to town.

"Probably the main reason everybody likes Wilmington is because it's not too crowded," was Dave Sweeney's tongue in cheek comment.

Vaughn Surprenant observed that though the town needs affordable housing, "it should be done realistically and it should be done so it doesn't destroy a neighborhood and a town."

The proposed Reed Street access road came under fire as neighbors asked the board to consider access off Hopkins Street.

Dan Gillis said that at a prior meeting he had asked Tighe to consider a different entrance only to be given "a blunt, absolute no."

Later in the evening Tighe explained he was "not able to purchase a way out" from owner Lester Chisholm which is why Reed Street is the main access road in his plans. When questioned further, Tighe said Chisholm set down the "rules" and keeping Reed Street closed was "never an option." This led one audience member to observe that was either preplanned or done for spite.

During the discussion, Leonard Chisholm made a bitter attack on neighbors in the Reed Street-Harold Avenue area.

"They're super snobs; 20 families are running this town," he said, adding "they fought it (the R20 rezoning) and now their chickens are coming home to roost."

In addition to Reed Street, the applicant proposes a second access through Third Avenue. Neighbors complained the road needed extensive work and the Dorchester-Hopkins Street intersection was dangerous and congested. Rolf recognized a study has to be done at that corner and said improvements would be made to Third Avenue at the developer's expense.

When questions were raised on the sewer hookup, Arthur Smith of the Water and Sewer Commission said his department has no ability to control expansion in town as long as developers adhere to commission requirements, which include correct pipe sizes for current and future development. He added he was awaiting the consultant's recommendations on the project.

Tighe once again sought to have the town become a friendly partner in the project.

When Selectman Jim Stewart pointed to the "gap" between the town's desire to have the site developed as single family homes and Tighe's 384 unit proposal, Tighe said "Mr. Chisholm is a very very greedy person," adding "we'd love to sit down and work with a responsible official."

"Any time you work with a Wilmington official you work with a responsible person," Stewart replied.

The issue of negotiation came up at least twice, once when Surprenant observed that Tighe still hadn't addressed abutter's concerns and again when Lester Chisholm explained the benefits to the town if it would agree to negotiate with the developer.

Appeals board Chairman Bruce MacDonald seemed taken aback. He said he wasn't sure the town has had a chance to become a partner since the applicant has yet to supply all the necessary information to make an informed decision. He assured those present "the decision will not be rendered until we have all the answers we want."

Fluoridation of water proposed

by Arlene Surprenant

The possibility of fluoridating Wilmington's water supply was reviewed by the Wilmington Board of Health Monday night.

At the board's request, a feasibility study had been undertaken by the Massachusetts Department of Public Health in August. The study revealed that Wilmington water could be fluoridated "safely and effectively."

Martha Wood, Assistant Director of Dental Health for the health department, was present to go over costs and outline the fluoridation process. She told board members it was their prerogative to order fluoridation after one or several public hearings are held on the issue. If 10 percent of the registered voters petition that the issue be placed on the ballot fluoridation could be a referendum question on a state or town ballot, she added.

Wood encouraged the board to place the question on the November 1988 ballot as it may take a full year for the board to feel "comfortable" with its decision. Chairman James Ficociello suggested public hearings start this November.

According to Wood, 56 percent of the state is drinking fluoridated water. She said fluoridation has proven to be the most cost effective method of reducing tooth decay.

Wood explained that a small sodium fluoride metering system could be installed at three Wilmington locations at an estimated cost of $35,000. The cost of the fluoride chemical is expected to be another $14,000 per year. Upon receipt of Federal Preventive Health Block Grant funds, said Wood, the public health department would fund the cost of purchasing and installing the metering system as well as a two year supply of fluoride. After two years, the state would only reimburse a portion of the cost of the chemical.

Concerns were raised on safeguards, effect of the chemical on Wilmington pipes, overfluoridation, and taste. Though in favor of the action, Ficociello pointed out that fluoridation is caustic and toxic and, in many cases, overfluoridation causes white patches to appear on teeth. These are concerns which will have to be addressed, he said.

Water Supt. Paul Duggan and board member Joe Paglia brought out that an experiment with fluoride in the town water supply approximately 25 years ago was unsuccessful and residents voted to remove it.

Ficociello, who had to warn both men to refrain from emotionalism and to deal only in scientific facts, said since that time, additional research had been done. Wood agreed. She pointed out when Wilmington water was fluoridated in the past, it was done without state supervision. Today, she said, the state requires random tests be done on fluoridated water every day in the interests of public safety.

Special Town Meeting Monday night

Wilmington's two special town meetings are both scheduled for next Monday, September 28 at 7:30 p.m. in the high school gymnasium.

The following is a rundown on the nine articles on both warrants.

Article 1: Budget article to appropriate $50,000 for a housing consultant for 774 proposals and future housing plans.

Fincorn recommends approval, with changes.

Article 2: Budget article seeking $6,000 for a machine to process bills and $67,259 for unpaid NESWC disposal bills.

Fincorn recommends approval.

Article 3: To amend a prior vote to increase the Jacobs Street sewer betterment to $60,000.

Fincorn recommends approval.

Article 4: To allow off premises signs to direct traffic to industrial areas.

Fincorn recommends approval.

Article 5: Rezone 46 acres on Andover Street from R60 to R20 for a 43 lot subdivision. Danco Development Corp. proponent.

Fincorn recommends approval.

Article 6: Rezone 24 acres on Hopkins Street from R60 to R10 for a 49 lot subdivision. Lester Chisholm proponent.

Fincorn recommends approval.

Article 7: Rezone 23 acres off Main Street from R20 and R60 to General Business. The site is under consideration for 774 housing. Proponents Steve MacInnes and Jay Tighe.

Fincorn recommends approval.

Article 8: Rezone 1.1 acres by Flower Stop from residential to General Business to increase parking on site. Dick Goglia proponent.

Fincorn recommends approval.

Article 1 (second special town meeting): Lift the moratorium on the sale of town owned land to convey land to Jim Newhouse to relieve a hardship.

Fincorn recommends approval.

Sewer hearing turns into shouting match

As a shouting match, the public hearing at the Wilmington Water & Sewer Commissioners meeting last Thursday might have achieved some fame. A public hearing it was not.

The meeting was slated to start at 7:30 p.m. for the purpose of determining the cost of installing a public sewer on Jacobs Street, using the betterment plan for payment of costs. There were too many other subjects about which to talk but which had nothing to do with determining costs.

A former town engineer had provided estimates of costs about two years ago. Based on those estimates the town meeting had voted to install a sewer. The figures in the estimate were unrealistic. Not having enough money for the project the commissioners were unable to proceed.

The result was a suit, in court, by some of the residents.

Four men, residents of the area, participated in the hearing. A fifth man, who arrived later, did not.

has never been accepted in the town meeting. It not only is unpaved, but the travelled way does not coincide with the plans prepared some three quarters of a century ago. In one place the travelled way runs over private property and there are trees growing where the travelled way should be.

Commissioner George Allan attempted to run a regular public hearing. Two of the four men persisted in interrupting and in trying to discuss five trees which had figured in the estimates of the previous town engineer. It was a case of three persons trying to talk at one time and with an increasing amount of volume.

Finally Allan threatened to evict the men, and they quieted down, but they soon resumed.

The commissioners had provided two plans, one of which would result in a surfaced street, and the other of which would not. Allan tried to discuss the alternative costs.

He did not succeed. There was talk on the part of the four men, or some of them, on the way things are done, or are not done in Boston.

One man spoke of "under the table," and "one hundred thousand dollars."

There was expressed conviction on the part of the audience that the commissioners did not want to put in a sewer main.

Commissioner Arthur Smith, for one period of about five minutes discussed the laws and statutes governing the installation of sewers. It seemed that the audience heard him, but then the noise resumed.

After nearly an hour the four men walked out, totally rejecting any idea of having a sewer installed. Two used language which would not be used in church.

After that the fifth person was able to have a quiet conversation with the commissioners. He learned that the cost of installation without paving, spread out over 20 years, and at six percent interest, would have cost an average household on Jacobs Street about $240 a year.

DEQE upholds appeal

by Arlene Surprenant

The Massachusetts Department of Environmental Quality Engineering (DEQE) recently upheld an appeal by former Conservation Commission secretary Ella Belmore following a site review August 27.

Belmore had appealed to DEQE in mid June seeking a reversal on the commission's negative determination on lot 111A in Palmer Way in Middlesex Pines.

A negative determination takes the commission "off the hook" in a manner of speaking, explained Belmore, because it allows a developer to proceed with his work since he's not working in a wetland area. The commission's negative determination on lot 111A stated that even though proposed work activities would be within the 100 foot buffer zone, it would not alter an area falling under the Wetlands Protection Act.

Belmore disagreed. She claimed that the site contains a large amount of wetland vegetation and is within the 100 foot buffer which would require a hearing. In a prior Order of Conditions issued by the commission, said Belmore, lot 111A was deleted as a house lot because according to engineer's plans, the lot was "almost entirely wetlands."

Belmore explained to commission members, through a letter dated September 15, that her primary concern has been with "the number of negative determinations that are being issued by the commission, which are affecting the wetlands and are not being monitored after issuance." Belmore also expressed concern that the site had been used as a stockpile area and a violation connected with filling which was not authorized by the commission had existed for sometime.

As a result of the DEQE site review, a positive determination has been issued requiring a wetlands hearing on the lot.

EXPENSES

The new tax law is stricter than ever on deductions for such business expenses as restaurant meals. Not only are deductions limited to 80 percent of the actual cost, but the meal must be directly related to the active conduct of your business. Simple "goodwill" meetings are no longer deductible.

Your charge card receipt is probably the best way to substantiate your deductions for business meals and related expenses. As soon as you get the receipt, note on the back the type of entertainment (lunch, etc.), the date, who was there and what business you discussed. It's advisable to be as detailed as possible. Get names, titles, company names.

On-the-road expenses are an interesting anomaly. Your own expenses for travel, hotel stays and meals are deductible - as long as you eat alone. But if you invite a customer to join you, neither his meal nor yours will be deductible unless you talk business.

Business firms large and small depend on our accounting services. What can we do for you?

Appeal filed on 774 decision

by Arlene Surprenant
The Investors Management Group (IMG) recently appealed the August 18 decision of the Wilmington Board of Appeals. At that time, the board voted unanimously to deny a comprehensive permit for the 192 unit condominium complex known as Wilmington Arboretum Apartments. The final decision on the Chapter 774 project now lies with the state Housing Appeals Committee.

The appeals board had denied the permit stating numerous conditions and reasons for doing so. According to IMG attorney Robert Shafer, the applicant feels the reasons given for the denial are "unreasonable, not consistent with local needs, and without foundation in fact" in addition to being "uneconomic impositions."

In a statement of Prior Proceedings, Shafer said IMG intends to comply with all of the conditions except four. These four have to do with the sewer connection, rear and side yard setbacks, weekly inspections of work in progress, and fencing and landscaping to create a buffer for abutters.

According to regulations governing the Housing Appeals Committee hearing, the hearing will be held in Boston unless otherwise noted. The hearing shall include evidence, sworn testimony, and oral argument given by both sides before one or more members of the appeals committee. The hearing will open with a preliminary conference during which time each party will submit a statement of issues in dispute and evidence.

In some instances, a postponement or continuation of the hearing may be granted once the hearing is underway.

The appeals committee must render a written decision based upon a majority vote of the members within 30 days of the termination of the hearing. All parties may appeal the final decision to a superior court.

ex-Tewksbury residents tell of life in N.H.

John and Virginia MacKinnon, are well known former residents of Tewksbury. Now they live in the town of Washington, New Hampshire. But they still own their former home, and they return to their old home town from time to time.

John has the distinction of having been on the original "team" of Dr. An Wang, when that gentleman had his laboratory in Reading. It is said that it was he who convinced Dr. Wang that Tewksbury was the town into which he should move. At a Tewksbury selectmen's dinner, subsequent to the move, Dr. Wang is reported to have made the remark that he was hoping to see the day when he had 100 persons in his laboratory.

John retired in 1979. Next year he and Ginny bought about 125 acres in the western part of New Hampshire. Their home is near a small river, which runs through their property, and becomes a lake about a mile down stream. There are, they said, a total of 26 lakes in Washington.

John and Ginny returned to Tewksbury September 17, to be guests at the Tewksbury Rotary Club, and to show color photos of the countryside near their home. Most of the photos had been taken by Ginny, but John took a few.

The 125 acres they own is being converted into a wildlife sanctuary. They have cleared some land, to plant the soil with grasses, because young wild turkeys (poult) require grass in their diet. They have planted 200 pine trees. John has purchased a power sawmill, which he describes as "my latest toy."

That sawmill, as a one man operation, is supposed to be capable of cutting 1000 feet of lumber in a day. John says he feels very good when he manages to cut 500.

Washington is a town where they elect the fire chief, every year and they elect the chief of police too. To receive TV John has a receiver. The shows, he says, come in "fairly well."

But the roads he told the Rotarians in answer to a question, are better in Washington in the winter "than they are here!"

Davis graduated Boston University

Frankly speaking

by Kevin John Sowyrda

How you get to work is what really makes life all the more interesting. Your job itself may be lacking in excitement, or perhaps even mundane. But, should you care to commute daily on the commuter railway, you're sure to get your share of challenges, if not general aggravation.

The Boston and Maine railroad has operated two lines through Wilmington for quite a few years now, though recently they lost their contract to Amtrak. In any event, not very much has changed, and the following is a typical day in the life of a B & M Deadhead, made all the worse when residing on Route 62, Burlington Avenue.

The first challenge to anyone who lives down on Burlington Avenue, whether taking the train or driving to work, is successfully pulling your car out of the driveway. It's sort of like trying to cut in line at Filene's Basement at 10:30 p.m. on Christmas Eve. You're basically taking your life into your hands, but you have no other choice. I have found the best method for success here is, "damn the torpedos and full speed ahead". Just don't tell the local safety officer I said that.

Once on the road, you then have to figure out your 'traffic route'. Traffic route is a new term which identifies a different route from the usual route you would take to any place in town during certain times of the day. It's in effect from 7:00 a.m. to 9:00 a.m., and then from 3:30 p.m. to 6:00 p.m. If you live on Burlington Avenue, and somebody has to live there, it means you can never simply head down the road toward the Burlington Avenue bridge at 'traffic route' times. If you did this you'd be sure to hit a traffic jam up to Deming Way which would keep you crawling at about one mile per hour.

So when I've squeezed my car onto Rt. 62, I head down Boutwell Street, take a right on Aldrich, a right on Shawsheen over the Fred F. Cain Bridge, a left on 38, (where I find even more traffic), a right on Glen Road, and then a right on Middlesex Avenue. All this probably sounds like directions to Jordan's Furniture, only missing the "left on Spitbrook, right at Daniel Webster". But if you need to get to the local train depot, this is the only way except for walking. And nobody walks these days.

And after driving the circumference of the town, when without traffic I could have gone straight down my own street to get to the train station in Wilmington Center, I have to park at 'pot hole city', adjacent to the post office. Who ever owns that small parking area must also own a front end alignment business. As you pull your car in you'll swear you have just landed on the lunar surface. Then when you exit your car, you get to walk through a nice field of mud, which makes the old shoes look just great for that important meeting you have scheduled with the big boss.

By now the 8:06 a.m. train is about to leave, and my watch reads about 8:00 on the dot. As the train pulls in, you can't help shaking your head when you see only three train cars, when you know about 500 people take this same commuter line before it arrives in North Station (and North Station is an experience in and of itself, which we'll save for later).

Once on board, you can either flash your T Pass to the conductor, or hand him your ticket. For the rest of the ride, you're bound to be either cold or hot, depending upon the season. Not wanting to be traditional like the rest of the transportation world, the railroad turns on their heat in the summer, and their air conditioning in the winter. This proves that they must have been recently bought out by Continental Airlines. To make matters a little more civilized for the 20 minute trek into what one commuter calls the 'Emerald City', a few of us got together once and signed a petition calling for donuts and coffee to be served by friendly stewardesses on board. I can't print what the response of the conductor was when we handed him this petition a while back.

So if you must commute via the railway, and to make matters worse for yourself you live on Burlington Avenue, allow me to wish you the very best of luck. From the looks of things, it doesn't seem to be getting any easier.

point of view

by Arlene Surprenant

The silent majority had its chance to speak out at Tuesday night's board of appeals hearing on Shawsheen River Estates.

Unfortunately, some of the comments only served to add fuel to the fire. Some of the comments, sadly, bordered on slander, and dealt with personalities and emotionalism rather than the issue at hand.

When neighbors fight neighbors, the time has come to put on the brakes. It's one thing to express a concern and ask a question. It's quite another to fling out accusations and undocumented statements in an effort to get even or put the other guy in his place.

The push for condominiums under 774 and HOP is gaining momentum in Wilmington. Now more than ever cool heads should prevail. Each project should be dealt with on a rational level in a calm way.

What's past should be viewed as "water under the dam." The future of our town is what's now at stake.

letters to the editor

Dear Larz:

I read your editorial last Thursday afternoon just before ringing the bell at the First Baptist Church in Tewksbury for 200 seconds. While Mrs. Eugenia Spalding played "America the Beautiful" on the chimes I stood at the opened window listening and thinking of what all this was celebrating - I thought of my father's ancestors leaving Essex County, England in 1633 and of their apprehension; of their great grandson in the Army of the Revolution; my great, great grandfather at Bull Run; my uncle responsible for arranging massive burial services at Dachau; my father able to travel back and forth over the U.S./Canada border with ease on business; that I am able to submit my thoughts and concerns to a newspaper; that my 16 year old son is able to exercise his choice to decide to go to Europe on his own to enhance his high school education; of a nursing school classmate in Afghanistan giving sorely needed medical care to the freedom fighters and their families.

I watched the cars on Rt. 133, some slowed down to be involved others in their oblivion kept up their pace. The children in the playground squealing with delight at the release of red, white and blue balloons.

Some of those people I mentioned went to find it, others were protected by it, others fought for it - freedom. "Let Freedom Ring."

Sincerely,
Cynthia Carson

Dear Larz:

On Saturday, September 19, 1987, I was privileged to observe a ceremony held on the grounds of the Disabled American Veterans Post in Tewksbury. I stood in the rain, shoulder to shoulder with men and women I was honored to be with; people who in one way or another had served their country and fought for the rights and freedoms we so typically take for granted.

I stood directly behind the family of a man they were honoring this day; I listened while they told of his dedication to family, community and country. I watched as the draping was pulled away and his name revealed; a cold chill ran through me...

I do not understand, nor shall I ever, why anyone would object to a memorial such as this; it is so fitting, and it has enriched a corner of Tewksbury much like Bob Fay has enriched so many lives in our town.

I searched for words to convey to his family - should I apologize for all the controversy raised concerning the placement of this memorial? No, I thought, people have a right to express themselves - that's what Bob Fay and many others fought and died for - the irony of it all!

I then attended a candlelight vigil for all the MIA's and POW's who had served in more than one field of battle. I listened as the "roll" was called, and the cry came back, "Missing in action, Sir." I was moved to tears as the father of one of these missing soldiers read from a letter which apparently was written to represent an outcry from a POW - the despair and frustration was genuine in that crowd, I am sure.

Over the years I have heard many remarks about the calibre and character of those who are in attendance at the D.A.V. at any given time. These people have been described as "barflies," and indeed, "alcoholics." In my opinion these are among the most dedicated and caring people of our community as well as our country. I am proud and honored to be among them, I am comfortable to be in their Post at any time, day or night, and, most importantly, I am proud to refer to them as my "friends."

Sincerely,
Mary A. Hallisey

Dear Larz,
On Tuesday night the appeals board met to hear a presentation of editorial

The plant that nobody wants

Next Wednesday evening, there will be a hearing in Wilmington on a proposal to build a facility to compost or burn sewage sludge.

Obviously, such a facility does not rate a "10" on everybody's list of what they want in their back yard. Exactly how much opposition there is in Wilmington to such a facility remains to be seen. Residents of Stoughton recently made it quite clear at a hearing that they do not want such a facility in their town. Quincy, too, has been loud and clear delivering its message.

Any facility for disposing of sewage naturally falls into the NIMBY class -- it has to go somewhere, but not in my back yard. Equally popular are prisons, nuclear waste dumps, and oil refineries.

The site in North Wilmington may be eliminated from consideration simply by the owners' plans for the land. The part of the land which is residential may become a subdivision, if the special town meeting on Monday night approves rezoning it to smaller house lots. It may be that the entire matter is of no worry to Wilmington.

Before casting the matter aside, though, it might be a good idea to put yourself in the shoes of the officials of the Mass. Water Resources Authority. You have a half-million gallons of sludge being pumped into Boston Harbor every day, and you have to stop this. What are you going to do?

Simply loading it on a barge and hauling it out to sea for dumping is out of the question. Congress won't let you do it. Your answer has to please a wide audience, including Congress, state and local officials, and hopefully, the general public.

In the best of all possible worlds, some scientist would come up with a way to make hamburgers out of sludge, and the MWRA could then sell the stuff to the highest bidding fast-food chain. Talk about a marketing coup!

Short of being able to convert sludge into food, the next best answer is to convert it into soil, and that's what the hearing on Wednesday night is all about. The sludge plant is intended to take the solid residue of sewage and make it into dirt which can be safely used for topsoil, as long as it is not used for growing food. You could rebuild your lawn with it, or a sod company could use it for growing grass.

There is one question which we haven't heard the answer to, one which was raised by Town Manager Buzz Stapczynski. Much like Clara Peller's asking "Where's the beef?" Buzz has asked, "Where's the carrot?" If a community is to accept the sludge composting facility, it is quite likely that some incentives will be offered. We'd like to hear about possible incentives before rejecting the plant completely.

Compared to many other things, perhaps a sludge plant wouldn't be all that bad. It doesn't glow in the dark, it won't blow up, and it can't escape and mug you.

Much of the problem we're faced with could be laid to the mentality of the flush toilet. People have become used to pushing a little lever, and that nasty stuff goes away. The only problem is that it doesn't really go away. Somebody has to deal with it.

Before you say, "Not in my back yard!" stop and think about where that stuff from your toilet will ultimately go. If your home has a septic system, it is going in your back yard already. From there, it eventually gets pumped out and dropped into the sewer. Tewksbury recently found itself having no facility where "honey wagons" could unload. The town finally arranged to have a dumping facility near Worcester. The cost of pumping a septic system in Tewksbury jumped to about $200. A Wilmington homeowner can take advantage of a special, and have his system pumped for $45, simply because the town is tied into the MWRA sewer system.

That benefit is not without a cost. Somehow, somewhere, the MWRA has to take care of your sludge.

letter to the editor

Dear Larz:

America the Beautiful. Wilmington, the beautiful? Not if you come Route 62 by the way of North Reading. Arrive at the Wilmington line, and what do you see, broken down fences, and some of that is Town of Wilmington property to maintain.

No wonder those adjacent businesses do not bother to fix, spruce, or even shape up their property. Not unsightly to them because it all stands for money. Maybe what we need is a Lady Bird, she made America aware, even to fences to block off unsightly business properties. Then she gave a conscience to many and there are many businesses that take pride in their plant. All except those who one sees as he arrives in Wilmington via Route 62 coming from North Reading.

People ought to drive and see what the business in North Reading did to his place. It must be nice to have neighbors who care. Good thing there is a health center down the street the way their big trucks pull out. They should be required to have a cop on duty for every load and unload. As often they impinge on traffic when they do.

Now no doubt the town manager, the selectmen, and whoever, will say we have no laws against what is going on. What is going on is that the Town of Wilmington is not taking care of our property first. As a taxpayer, therefore an owner that gets me. Then if we do what we should, maybe then they, the businesses will get conscience to do what any good citizen and neighbor should.

Then if they do not, one knows what they really are. By the way it might be the town manager did not make a very smart deal when he leased the property. Money is not always everything.

PAY TO THE ORDER OF	Town of Wilmington	$1,320,000.00
One Million Three hundred Twenty Thousand $\frac{00}{100}$		DOLLARS
MEMO	12 Lots at $110,000 EACH	Lester W. Chisholm

This represents the value of the 12 buildable lots the Chisholm family is donating to the town under Article 6 of the Special Town Meeting.

WHY?

Why have the Town Fathers and Town Meeting voters turned down article after article for affordable single family or alternative housing?

Why didn't the town have the foresight to purchase the Chisholm Farm property when it was offered two years ago or at least re-zone that property one year ago for affordable single family housing?

Why, once they have fulfilled their American Dream of home ownership, do the NO voters work so hard to prevent others from having the same opportunity?

Why do some neighbors think they have a guarantee that Wilmington will never change now that they have purchased their homes here? A lot of long-time residents could describe a far different Wilmington of 20 or 30 years ago. They had no promises or guarantees.

Why is there not accurate and unbiased newspaper reporting on affordable housing proposals in this town such as Article 6?

FOR EXAMPLE you did not read that 25% of all buildable lots would be donated to the Town for single family housing; you did not read that the Chisholm Mink Farm would ALSO be CLOSED down if the re-zoning is approved.

The fact that a portion of the property would become part of Wilmington's conservation land was also not mentioned.

Why can't we use foresight to put the land to it's best use for the good of Wilmington's younger generation who are going to want their own homes (here in town)?

WILL THE TOWN AGAIN SAY "NO" to a gift through Article 6, which will add 12 buildable lots for the town's needs?

Please get involved. All you people looking for affordable single family housing in Wilmington, come out to vote at the Special Town Meeting Monday night, Sept. 28 at 7:30 p.m.

VOTE "YES" ON ARTICLE 6

Constitution anniversary

Colonial dress was the costume of the day at the Wilmington United Methodist Church on Sunday, to honor the 200th anniversary of the signing of the U.S. Constitution. Among those attending were several members of the Wilmington Minutemen.

Community Fund Walkathon Sunday

The big story of the Wilmington Community Fund Walkathon this year is that Frank Tuttle is back.

For many years, Frank was both the oldest walker and the most successful adult fundraiser. Being retired, Frank had the time to go door-to-door, signing up pledges. In good years, he was able to raise about a thousand dollars, single-handedly.

As he approached the age of 80, Frank announced his retirement from the Walkathon. He turned the responsibility over to Hugh Wiberg.

Well, Frank just wasn't content to sit on the sidelines. This year, he has been seen soliciting sponsors for his walk.

The Walkathon is an annual fundraising event for the Wilmington Community Fund, a strictly local charity. Besides helping people in times of need, the Community Fund helps sponsor worthwhile local organizations.

The Walkathon is held on the last Sunday in September. Hundreds of walkers gather on the Wilmington Common, and check in at tables. At 12:30, a gun is fired, and the walkers are off. They set out on a ten-mile course, going down Wildwood Street to Woburn Street, north on Woburn Street to High Street, across Route 62 and along the end of Middlesex Avenue to Salem Street. They then proceed west on Salem Street to Cunningham Street, from which they cross over to Faulkner Avenue. They then follow Glen Road back to Middlesex Avenue and the Common.

The Walkathon organizers distribute pledge sheets to Wilmington school children, who solicit pledges. Sheets are also available at the Town Crier, Church Street Hardware, and at Dr. Thomas' office.

Psychic to speak in Wilmington

Tuesday evening, September 29, 1987, 7 p.m. at Wilmington Memorial Library, Dr. William E. Evans, Jr. M.D., Behavioral Medicine and Psychiatry, of Chelmsford, Mass., will be the main speaker for an evening of exploration into the power of the mind in self healing. This talk is sponsored by Sycamore of Wilmington.

Dr. Evans has been involved in the holistic concepts and consciousness research as it applies to medicine and psychology for the past 14 years. He has practiced basic and advanced meditation practices and has participated in many "residence courses" on these subjects throughout the world. Since 1970 he has been involved and has appeared on television and radio discussing these subjects.

New Age concepts are nothing new; it is just an awakening of ancient teachings and instruments of healing and coming together in trust to heal ourselves and one another.

Design Day

Youngsters at Wilmington's Shawsheen School participated in the design of a new playground on Thursday. Architect Robert Leathers spoke to the children, asking their ideas for the new facility.

Youngsters help design playground

by Arlene Surprenant
More than 500 Wilmington residents listened attentively last Thursday as architect Robert Leathers outlined his schematic design for Wilmington's proposed play area Kidsplace.

The evening meeting at the Shawsheen School was the successful culmination of weeks of hard work by the Kidsplace Committee and input from Wilmington school-children, who submitted three dimensional drawings and sculptures of their dream playground. Leathers incorporated many of the ideas in his initial design, which will become final in another few weeks.

Some of the highlights of the Wilmington playground will be a huge wooden whale for climbing, a mirror maze and interconnecting passageways, a spiral staircase into a tower, a fort with a tire stacked exit, an obstacle course, a suspension bridge, an amphitheater seating up to 200 children, a picnic area, and a handicapped area with wheelchair ramps.

"The whole thing is just so mind boggling," said an enthusiastic Barbara Cannon who, with her husband John, is spearheading the effort on behalf of the entire community. Cannon noted all the effort which went into last Thursday's Design Day was well worth it when she saw the "incredible" look on the faces of the children that night.

During Design Day itself, Leathers and his associate Rachael Wagner met with all elementary children as well as DPW head Bob Palmer, Recreation Dept. head Ron Swazey, and School Supt. Robert Horan. Meetings were held not only on the eventual design but on the site itself, which is the present location of the Shawsheen School playground. Kidsplace will run the length of the parking lot and curve along the tennis court area. After construction, it will be maintained by a six member committee known as Friends of the Park.

Thursday evening, 150 residents signed up for Construction Week-end slated, at this writing, for June 1988. During Construction Week-end, which generally extends from Wednesday through Sunday, local citizens will gather at the site rain or shine to share the work and make the dream become a reality.

According to Cannon, her goal is to have 400 residents signed up by November 1 and 1500 names by next June. She invites young and old alike to participate, either taking part in the actual construction in four hour shifts, babysitting, or serving food.

"This is a townwide project. There are enough jobs for everyone," she told the Town Crier, adding "we will be canvassing this town like a blanket."

Part of the effort includes raising the $35,000 to $40,000 necessary to cover all costs beyond donations of tools and time and expertise by local citizens. To date, said Cannon, $4,000 has been raised and two people have volunteered their services in landscaping and masonry work.

The committee's kickoff fundraiser will be a "Buy a Board" campaign where residents will be asked to contribute either three or five dollars towards the cost of the high quality lumber.

Publicity will be generated through special editions of elementary newspapers and gaily colored shopping bags placed in local supermarkets. The bags will be decorated by Wilmington children with their dream playgrounds and a plea to support Kidsplace. A second fundraiser, "Pennies From Heaven," will most likely be held in February, said Cannon. This fun type activity will ask all children and teenagers to bring pennies they've saved to a central school location.

The Kidsplace Committee consists of several hardworking coordinators. They are Anne Falanga and Joanne Neale (volunteers), Sandy Arciero (publicity), Gail Holloway and Marilyn Hanrahan (fundraising), Debby Birmingham, Susan MacCarthy, and Cannon (children's committee), Cathy Dellascio and Sally Torpy (food), Jim Gillis and John Cannon (materials), Artie Dellascio (tools), and Linda Whitebone (treasurer). Cannon said they are still in need of two coordinators to arrange child care during Construction Weekend.

Arts Lottery grants applications available

The Wilmington Council for the Arts has announced that application forms for the January funding cycle are now available at the Memorial Library and the town hall.

Artists, dramatists, musicians, writers, individuals or organizations may apply if their projects will contribute to the culture of Wilmington. Also made possible by the Massachusetts Arts Lottery are PASS grants. The Performing Arts Students Series allows school children, grades K through 12, to attend performing events in theaters and concert halls. Teachers of public, private and parochial schools may apply by completing PASS applications available at schools, library and town hall. These funds are awarded on a reimbursement basis.

All applications must be returned to Wilmington Council for the Arts, Town Hall, Wilmington no later than October 2, 1987 in order to be considered. Forms received after this date or improperly completed cannot be accepted for granting. Any questions may be answered by calling 658-2042.

HAMMER TOES WHAT CAN BE DONE?

Hammer toes are small-toe deformities that occur in the little joints of the toe. Their cause can be attributed to inherited bone and joint structures and are aggravated by shoe gear.

A hammer toe is usually a "claw-like" deformity of the first joint of the smaller toes. The joint "buckles" upwards and rubs in the shoes. The rubbing irritates the skin and the joint and causes a painful swollen joint along with a corn over the joint.

Correction of this deformity can be simple releasing of the tendons, to releasing of the tendons in combination with removal of a small piece of bone.

These procedures are done under local anesthesia on a out-patient basis in either the office or hospital.

obituaries

Donald Young

Donald P. Young of Wilmington died at Choate Memorial Hospital Monday, September 21, 1987, after a lengthy illness. Born in Medford 60 years ago, Mr. Young had lived in Wilmington for the past 36 years.

Mr. Young is survived by his wife Virginia P. (Heath), his mother, Mrs. Ruby (Gault) Young of North Reading, three daughters, Edith C. Norton of Magnolia, Janet E. Marshall of Kingston, N.H., and Barbara Stanga of Weymouth. He was the brother of David Young of Andover, Marion Gross of Arlington, Dorothy DuGray of Keene, N.H., Elsie Ransom of Stoughton, and Edith Boudreau of Florida. Five grandchildren also survive.

Mr. Young was a self-employed electrical manufacturer of safety lighting equipment.

Funeral services will be held at the Wilmington Baptist Church Friday, Sept. 25 at 10 a.m. with the Rev. Everett Reed officiating. Visiting hours will be held at the Nichols Funeral Home, 187 Middlesex Ave., Wilmington, Thursday from 2 to 4 and 7 to 9 p.m. In lieu of flowers contributions in his memory may be made to the Memorial Fund of the Wilmington Baptist Church. Burial will be in Wildwood Cemetery.

Kenneth Smith

Kenneth E. Smith, Jr., of 48 Clark St., Wilmington died suddenly on Monday, September 21, 1987, in Woburn.

Mr. Smith, 22 years of age, was born in Chelsea, the son of Barbara J. (Howse) and Kenneth E. Smith, Sr., of Wilmington. He lived in Somerville during his younger years, moving to Wilmington 16 years ago. He was a graduate of Wilmington High School Class of 1983 and was a member of Wilmington Little League, School Bowling Team and Troop 56 Boy Scouts, Wilmington.

At the time of his death, Mr. Smith was serving as a custodian at the Woburn Street School, Wilmington.

Beside his parents, Barbara and Kenneth Smith, Sr., he is survived by his sister, Ms. Doreen E. Smith of Wilmington and his grandmother Mrs. Lillian G. Smith of Billerica.

The funeral will be held from the W.S. Cavanaugh & Son Funeral Home, 374 Main St., Thursday morning at 9:15 followed by a Funeral Mass at St. Thomas Church, Wilmington, at 10, celebrated by the Rev. Charles J. Hughes. Interment will follow in the family lot, Wildwood Cemetery, Wilmington.

Friends may call at the funeral home Wednesday from 2 to 4 and from 7 to 9 p.m.

Willard Luken

Willard C. Luken, a resident of Wilmington for the last 35 years died at his home, September 19, 1987, after a lengthy illness.

Born in Wakefield 65 years ago, Mr. Luken was the son of the late Roy and Lucy (Skillings) Luken and is survived by his wife Carolyn M. (Connors), two daughters, Patricia A. Toto of Wilmington and Christine M. Barnard of Texas.

He was the brother of Francis of Wilmington, Roland of Andover, Richard of Epping, N.H., Robert of Wakefield, Ronald of Londonderry, N.H., Alice Deland of Hampton, N.H., Ruth Luken of New Harbor, Me., Marie Moore of Florida, and Janice Butler of Calif. Five grandchildren also survive.

Mr. Luken served in the Coast Guard during World War II. Prior to his illness he was employed by Raytheon Co. as an analyst in the Andover plant for many years, and was past master of Friendship Lodge of Masons AF&AM, Wilmington.

Funeral services were held at the Nichols Funeral Home, Wilmington, on Wednesday with the Rev. Frank Stillers of the Wilmington Baptist Church officiating. Burial took place in Wildwood Cemetery, Wilmington.

Wilmington school news

Wildwood School

Wildwood Principal Michael Tikonoff welcomed parents to Orientation Night with a review of the changes that have occurred in the school. He noted the expanded services of the new full-time librarian, full-time nurse Susan Rowe, as well as computer instruction for grades four and five.

Parents' attention was drawn to the newly re-surfaced playground area and front walks, replaced windows in lower wing classrooms, and painting of the corridors, which has definitely improved the appearance of our school.

The basic message of the night dealt with parent/teacher communication. Mr. Tikonoff encouraged the parents to make communication productive with notes and conferences. He reminded parents that the most successful conferences result when they have their concerns written down; when they focus the talk on these concerns; and when they remain aware of the time frames for the conference. Following Mr. Tikonoff's remarks, parents visited the various classrooms.

During the night, the PAC held a very successful bake sale. We thank everyone who contributed by baking or purchasing baked goods. Joe Calvert, our cheerful custodian, was the surprised winner of the silk flower arrangement.

The Accreditation Team will be visiting the Wildwood School

October 5, 6, 7. Mr. Tikonoff invites parents who are interested in participating on a committee to meet the team to contact him at the school.

On Tuesday, September 29 at 9:45 a.m., in the all-purpose room, Bob Steiner will kick off our Nationwide Fund Raising campaign. Officer Shelley will also attend. In lieu of prizes Mr. Tikonoff has arranged for Mr. Steiner to donate telescopes, basketballs, calculators and other gifts to the entire school.

Ten children represented their classes on the Children's Committee for Design Day. Many thanks go to Bonnie Roberts and Zachariah Pidgeon, grade one; Bryan Mason and Christine Jagodynski, grade two; Dave Santini and Eric McKenna, grade three; Joan DeMarco and Tracy Reitchel, grade four; and Philip Florence and Andrea Edwards from grade five.

A bus safety program will be held at the school Friday, September 25.

Parents are asked to support the annual Walk-a-Thon. Students in grades four and five are encouraged to play a part. The Wildwood School was the number one fundraising school in 1986-87.

Mr. Tikonoff would like to invite parents to see him about any concerns. His door is always open.

West Intermediate School

The West Intermediate School cordially invites parents to an open house Wednesday, September 30, from 7 to 9 p.m. Parents are invited to follow their child's Wednesday schedule, moving from class to class, meeting teachers and learning about their plans and programs for the year. Coffee will be served in the cafeteria from 8:30 to 9 p.m.

Parents are reminded to call the school whenever their child is going to be absent. If we do not hear from you, we will be calling your home or place of business. Please telephone between 7:30 and 7:45 a.m. at 658-6540 or 658-6541.

Shawsheen

Elementary School

Officer Bob Spencer will be at the school to present Project Dare to fifth grade parents. The meeting will take place Monday, Sept. 28 at 7 p.m. in the school cafeteria.

The Shawsheen Pac's October meeting will be held October 2 at 9 a.m. in the cafeteria. The meetings are open to all interested parents. Babysitting will be available.

North Intermediate School

The staff of the North Intermediate School cordially invites parents to attend the open house of Tuesday evening, September 29, from 7 to 9:30 p.m. Parents will sit in on their child's classes from 7 to 8:30 p.m.

There will be a social period from 8:30 to 9:30 p.m. with refreshments being served.

Sheets for signing up to be a PAC member will be available so the first meeting can be scheduled early in October.

Note: Please bring any school news to the Town Crier office by Monday evenings. Or contact Arlene Surprenant (658-5696). Make sure your school is well represented each week. We like to publicize faculty and student news, school activities and upcoming events and classroom news.

First Baptist Church in Wilmington

The First Baptist Church of Wilmington has announced a 'WalkThruThe-Bible' Seminar scheduled for Saturday, Sept. 26 from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. at the church.

These widely acclaimed seminars are offered nationally and internationally. The cost of the all-day seminar is $7.50. Pre-registration is available by calling the church office weekdays at 658-8584.

The seminar will center on the Old Testament, inviting you to travel from Genesis to Malachi in 77 exciting, memorable steps. Pause at all the high points. Visit the important people and places of the Old Testament. Participants lose their fear of studying the Old Testament through a better understanding of how the 39 books fit together. They learn who the main characters are and how the story of God's persistent love unfolds through the ages. They come face to face with the claims of Jesus Christ on their lives and see the relevancy of God's Word today.

letter to the editor

Dear Larz:

I would like you to know that I will be a candidate for the office of Selectman in Tewksbury for the next election (you mentioned that I had been wondering aloud.) I agree that it will be an interesting contest indeed.

I would like to correct your statement indicating that I am chairman of ACT. I am not, nor have I been for over a year. ACT is a non-political neighborhood organization and continues to remain so. The chairman is John Olsen (851-9895). Indeed, I have resigned from the board so that there will be no conflict with these principles.

I don't want anyone to think that ACT has changed its charter, and I want to see it continue its mission - to be a place for neighbors to exchange views and help each other tackle problems within town. They are a valuable resource for the people of Tewksbury, and I wish them well.

Sincerely,
Lee Toth

It's Our Birthday, But The Presents Are For You....

1st Anniversary! 2171 Main Street, Tewksbury Office! September 21st to October 3rd.

After one year in our 2171 Main Street office here in Tewksbury, it's time to celebrate!

It's been a year of making banking easier for you. Our innovative "Sit-Down" banking concept has convinced many people that standing in line is a thing of the past. Why stand, when you can sit?

Plus, more and more of you and your neighbors have come to depend on Andover Bank for all your banking needs, from loans and savings to money market accounts and home equity lines of credit.

So, on our first birthday, we want to say, "Thanks!" With a free gift! (Here's a hint: you'll see it in the spring, but you can take it with you now.)

And, we'd like you to stop by and have a piece of birthday cake with us.

And, while you're enjoying the cake, enter our prize drawing, too. You might just win one of these prizes....

- A 13" GE Remote Color TV
- A Sony Cassette Player
- A Panasonic Answering Machine

Drawing for these prizes will be held Saturday, October 3, at 12 noon.

So, come and celebrate our First Birthday, and get your presents, too.

$9m mortgage for industrial park

The 93 Ballardvale Technology Park complex located in Wilmington

The Mortgage Finance Group of The Boston Financial Group Incorporated (BEG) has recently arranged $3,925,000 in the construction financing for Phase III of The 93 Ballardvale Technology Park complex located in Wilmington.

A 88,000 square foot warehouse structure, Phase III will meet the expansion needs of Lechmere - the occupant of the existing two warehouse structures containing 200,000 square feet. Corporate neighbors on Ballardvale Street include Compugraphic, Digital, ZTEL Laboratories and Pella Windows.

Placement of the loan was announced by George J. Fantini, Jr., senior vice president of Boston Financial and director of the firm's Mortgage Finance Group. Wayne L. Clough, vice president of Boston Financial negotiated the loan with a major institutional investor.

The Mortgage Finance Group of BFG arranges construction and permanent mortgage financing packages for all types of real estate. Through its contacts with a large network of local and national lenders, it arranges construction loans, interim loans, participating loans, joint ventures, and sale and leaseback financing. The Mortgage Finance Group also provides consultation to owners and developers on various financing alternatives and evaluates such alternatives with its extensive knowledge of financing markets.

The buildings owners include New England Communities, Inc., the developer of the building, of which Marc Slotnick and Ted Trivers are president and treasurer, and Princeton Properties, Inc., of which James Herscot is the president.

Artist plans map of Wilmington

Don't be surprised if a Little League baseball player comes to your door in a few months, offering a colorful aerial view of Wilmington. The sketch will be more of a cartoon than an actual map, with advertisers' businesses highlighted along with familiar town features.

The map will be the work of Bob Perry, an illustrator who grew up in Wilmington.

Perry has built a successful business drawing such illustrations. He usually has another artist draw the map, and salesmen go to businesses selling advertising spots. He has done maps for several area towns, including Tewksbury, Burlington and Lowell. He is working on plans to produce maps for many other areas.

Perry Productions is based in Lowell, but a Florida office is in the works, and one in California is in the planning stages.

Perry has worked for several firms in the area as a technical illustrator, having studied drafting at ITT Technical Institute. He quickly grew tired of drawing schematic diagrams of electronic devices, and began looking for more interesting work.

He had always liked cartooning, having copied Beetle Bailey cartoons as a youth. But he never took the work seriously until after he was discharged from the military.

Perry has focused much of his work in Lowell toward historical views of the city, drawing detailed maps which show buildings as they are at a particular time.

His plans for the Wilmington sketch are to include some of his boyhood memories, such as a boy pulling a twelve-inch trout out of Lubbers Brook.

Perry, who is now 40, grew up off Glen Road, on Garden Avenue. He lives in Hudson, N.H.

Spots on the map are now for sale, and the finished product should be available about three months after the final spot is sold. Look for it in mid-winter.

Business Connections September 22

The Chambers of Commerce and Industry, Northern Middlesex, has scheduled its first "Business Connections" program of the fall for Tuesday, September 22, at the Appleton Inn in Lowell. The after hours networking event will run from 5:15 to 7 p.m.

"This is an ideal chance for our membership to establish contacts with businesspersons of varying backgrounds," said Chambers president and CEO Kevin E. Coughlin.

The cost of "Business Connections" is $5 per person. Free hors d'oeuvres and a cash bar will be available. For reservations or more information please call the Chambers office at 454-5633.

College news
Middlesex Community College

Treat yourself to an evening out. The MCC Division of Continuing Education/Community Services is holding a series of informal Tuesday evening seminars. The second program in the series will take place on October 6, "India-a Country of Contrasts," will provide you with an opportunity to explore this enchanting and dynamic world. Radha Jalan will guide you through India past and present where ox cart and tractor march side by side. Ms. Jalan was born in raised in India and has lived in the United States for 20 years. She will share, through slides and narrative, a vision of cities and countryside; of architecture and art profiling this most complex and contrasting country.

Join a congenial group for a delicious and authentic Indian meal and stimulating discussion. Held at MCC Burlington Campus, on Terrace Hall Avenue, from 6 to 9 p.m. Seating is limited, please call 275-8910.

Money Management Seminar in Tewksbury

Sponsored by Waddell & Reed Financial Services. Learn how to plan your financial future. Discover investment alternatives through a color slide presentation explaining the process of Financial Planning and how it can work for you.

The free seminar will be held at the Tewksbury Public Library on Rte. 38 on Thursday October 1, from 7:30 to 8:30 p.m. All are welcome but seating is limited so please call for a reservation 933-2067.

"Take a Bite out of Crime"

Carlson Real Estate is sponsoring the national "Take a Bite out of Crime" crime prevention program in the Tewksbury area for the third consecutive year. The program's mascot, treacherous-clad, canine crimestopper McGruff, is seen and heard on commercials running on television and radio.

Carlson Real Estate is distributing book covers that outline safety procedures for walking back and fourth to school and Halloween bags that list precautions children and parents should observe while trick or treating in the neighborhood.

The book covers can be obtained through the Carlson Real Estate office in Tewksbury, located at 1866 Main Street; or phone 851-0048.

If you have something you wish to enter into Coming Events, contact Gaye Smith, Coming Events coordinator, at the Town Crier, 658-2346 or write, P.O. Box 460, Wilmington, MA 01887.

Talk it up for March of Dimes

Conversations, the "civilized" telephone party-line, is putting together a different kind of fund raiser for the March of Dimes Birth Defects Foundation.

For the first week in October (October 1-7), when you call Conversations at 1-550-2772 (617 area code) between 3 p.m. and 3 a.m., Conversations will make a donation to the March of Dimes.

Volunteer comedians from Boston's comedy connection will add a special spark to the telephone entertainment this fund-drive week. They will staff the phone lines to talk and laugh with callers. Local and national radio and T.V. celebrities will be calling in to join the fun.

7th Annual Goodwill Auction

Preparations are now underway for the 7th Annual Merrimack Valley Goodwill Benefit Auction to be held on Saturday, October 24, at the Walker-Rogers VFW Hall on Plain Street in Lowell. Proceeds from this auction will be used to support vocational rehabilitation programs sponsored by Merrimack Valley Goodwill Industries. Goodwill provides services to over 200 physically and mentally handicapped individuals throughout the Merrimack Valley.

More items are needed to insure that this year's event will be a true success. If you have antiques, furniture or other collectibles you would like to donate for the Goodwill Auction, free pick-up is available by calling 453-3051 between 8 a.m. and 4 p.m., Monday through Friday. Your donation of materials for Goodwill's auction is tax-deductible, and will serve to benefit the disabled in the Merrimack Valley.

Nutcracker auditions

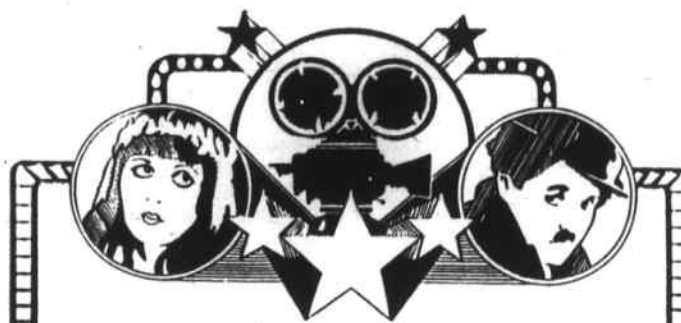

A total of 180 children will be selected for roles in Tchaikovsky's Nutcracker, to be staged by the Pittsburgh Ballet Theatre at the Collins Center for the Performing Arts, Andover, for six performances on December 4, 5, and 6. Children's auditions will be held at the Collins Center, Shawsheen Road, Andover, on Wednesday, September 30. For more information call 470-1905.

Chelmsford Quilters

The September meeting of the Chelmsford Quilters will be held on Monday, September 28, at 7:30 p.m., at the Central Baptist Church, Chelmsford. Speakers for the evening is Carol Doak and Carolyn Inglis of Windham, NH. They will talk on "It's not just another Quilt" and show over two dozen quilts and discuss pattern, design and fabric. The theme of the fabric is that there is more to be expressed in quilts than what is seen in the fabric.

The meeting is open to the public. Guest fee for non-members. The Chelmsford Quilters is a non-profit organization and membership is open to anyone interested in this particular endeavor. Meetings are held once per month covering the subject of quilting with lectures, demonstrations and workshops. Membership fee is $10 per year. For more information call Jeanne Glenfield at 692-2857 or Marie Geary at 256-2672.

Pre-schooler story hour

Three and four-year-olds and five-year-olds not in kindergarten, may register beginning Monday, Sept. 28 for Fall Story Hours at Wilmington Memorial Library.

Leaders of formal daycare groups and nursery school teachers should make arrangements with Mrs. Rueter, the library's children's services librarian for introductory or other class visits.

Library story hours are designed to acquaint young children with the treasures to be found in books and with the pleasures awaiting them at their library. Participation in library story hours is often a child's first group experience outside the home.

Story Hour groups will meet for a half hour of picturebook stories on Tuesday or Wednesday morning for four weeks beginning the week of October 12. Early registration is advisable since group size is limited.

For more information, or to register a child for one of the four groups, please call the Children's Department at 658-2967. Better still, come into the library and introduce your child at the time of registration.

Rep. Beckwith schedules Reading office hours

State Representative Geoffrey C. Beckwith, who represents Wilmington's precinct 3, Reading and North Reading in the Massachusetts House, this week announced his schedule for September office hours.

"A state representative must be accessible to everyone in his or her district," said Beckwith, who holds regular office hours each month in order to make it easier for constituents to meet with him whenever they have a question or problem concerning state government.

Beckwith will hold September office hours at two locations: on Thursday evening, September 24, he will be at the Flint Memorial Library on Bow Street in North Reading from 5:30 to 7 p.m. and later on Thursday evening, September 24, he will be in the meeting room of the Reading Public Library on Middlesex Avenue from 7:30 to 9 p.m.

"Interested citizens should never hesitate to get in touch with me at any time," said Beckwith, who invited residents to contact him at either the State House, Room 236, Boston, MA 02133 (722-2430) or his home, 218 High Street, Reading, MA 01867 (944-5030). "But these office hours will provide everyone with an additional opportunity to see me personally and offer input, ask for information or request assistance with a problem regarding state government."

Wilmington police news

If this were "drive without a license week" somewhere - people who believed it should have stayed out of Wilmington. As they do in most towns, local Police officers look with disfavor on those who continue to drive after their right to do so has been suspended. Eight such offenders were arrested in the seven day period ending Sept. 21.

During the week ending September 22, Wilmington police officers responded to five accidents, 23 alarms, nine disturbances, four break and entries, one fire and three incidents of suspicious activity.

Twelve arrests were made along with two protective custody detentions. Other departments were assisted three times and one assault and battery was investigated.

One trespassing complaint was logged along with a trailbike complaint and two complaints involving traffic. Two domestic problems were quieted, three persons were reported missing, one stolen vehicle was recovered and eight incidents of vandalism are still under investigation.

Arrests

Tuesday afternoon Officer James White arrested a Lowell man after a routine motor vehicle stop. Robert Harris of Fort Hill Road was arrested after a computer check revealed his license was suspended. He was bailed to appear Friday morning.

A second arrest Tuesday was made by Officer Jim Hanlon on the basis of a warrant obtained by Malden police for narcotics violation. Brian Scollaro, 573 Fellsway West, Medford was charged with possession of a class B substance. He was released to Malden detectives.

Wednesday evening Officer Frank Hancock arrested Paul Berry, 26 of 224 Burlington Avenue after a traffic stop. Berry was charged with operating after suspension of his drivers license.

Thursday the special enforcement team was deployed in several areas of town zeroing in on trucking problems and violations of the weight restrictions. Officer Steve LaaRivee arrested Pythagoras Paantapas, a truck driver who was found to have lost his license five years ago. He was charged with operating after suspension of his right to operate.

Officer Charles Fiore arrested Steven Damelio of Heritage Road, Billerica after a traffic stop. He was held on the basis of a Salem, Mass. default warrant.

Also arrested by the enforcement team was Paul McQuaid of Proctor Avenue, Revere who was charged with operating after his license was suspended.

David Mitchell of Belmont Street, Brockton, was arrested by Sgt. Duffy Thursday afternoon and charged with operating after suspension of his license.

Saturday night Sgt. Rooney arrested a Medford man on drug related charges. Jame Chase of Tainter Street was charged with possession of a class B substance believed to be cocaine. Chase was also charged with operating a motor vehicle after his license had been suspended.

Early Sunday morning William Perry, 21 of Oakridge Circle, Wilmington was arrested by Sgt. Rooney and charged with operating after suspension of his license.

Monday morning at 1:20 Officer Jim White arrested Joseph Stoddard of Lilly Street, Lowell after a traffic stop and computer check revealed his license was suspended.

Wilmington senior topics

Thanks, new bank

We extend our thanks to the Andover Savings Bank for considering Wilmington senior citizens in celebrating the opening of a new branch office in Tewksbury. Every day starting Monday, Sept. 21 to Fri., Oct. 2, the bank will generously send 65 desserts from Mirabella Bakery of Tewksbury to the Center. They will be added to the 65 shut-in dinners being delivered by the drivers in the meals program.

To top off their festivities a representative of the bank will be at the October 5 Council on Aging meeting. At that time a presentation to the seniors of a cake from the Mirabella Bakery will be made. Please try to attend the meeting of Oct. 5. That will be our way of showing appreciation to the Andover Bank management for considering the Wilmington seniors in their celebration.

Halloween party

The Council on Aging therapeutic social for October will be "The Lowell Hilton Senior Citizen Halloween Costume Party." It will be held Friday, Oct. 30. The day will begin with buses leaving the Senior Center at 10:50 a.m., arriving at the Hilton at 11:30. Dinner will be served at noon. Entertainment and dancing will follow. We will be leaving the Hilton at 3 p.m., arriving back at the Center around 3:45 p.m. Sign-up for this social will start Thurs., Sept. 24. A $5 non-refundable deposit will be required. We were allowed to reserve for only 150 seniors, so please sign up early if you wish to attend. No senior can sign for another unless the senior is a spouse. A disabled senior unable to come to the Center should call the coordinator at 658-2258 or 657-7595; allowances will be made.

Fuel assistance

Fuel assistance applications are being made out at the Buzzell Senior Center every Friday on appointment only. Those having their applications made out in September must understand no deliveries before October 1 can be paid for under this year's funding. All bills with deliveries made from October 1 on can be submitted for payments.

We are receiving calls from seniors for oil burner services and deliveries who had their applications made last Friday. To get the applications processed and approved by Oct. 1, is the reason the Federal Government pushed up the intake to September. The funding to pay the bills remains from Oct. 1 until the funds run out or June 30 whichever comes first. If you had your oil burner serviced or oil delivered in September the responsibility to pay for it is your's.

Any senior who thinks they may qualify should call the Center for an appointment. The qualifying amounts are: for a household of one $9,625; household of two, $12,950.

No smoking

We have been asked by Mr. Fleming of the high school to inform the seniors going to the high school for lunch to abide by the no smoking rule while in the school. We feel seniors should show by their actions wherever we are that rules are made not only for the young, but also for the old and should be adhered to at all times.

Fall fair

The seniors are all busy preparing for the fall fair which will be held Sat., Nov. 28, Sun., Nov. 29. The fall fair is a very important function to all of us. Money derived from it is used to supplement our budget. The arts and crafts all-day picnic is the therapeutic social for July. The Christmas and New Year's open house parties are also paid through this money. Also, all kitchen and crafts room articles and repair costs for all office machines. To make enough money to cover the expenses of the above, we have to have a large number of items.

Will you help by making articles at home or at the Center? Any talent you have will be welcomed. If you need yarn or material come to the arts and crafts room at the Center.

Cable changeover starts November 1 in Wilmington

by Arlene Surprenant
Greater Boston Cable is preparing to switch Wilmington subscribers over to its new cable system beginning November 1. According to General Manager Richard Wadman, all customers are expected to be hooked into the new trunk line by early spring.

At an informational meeting last Wednesday, Wadman and other company representatives were present to outline the changeover procedure and the advantages of the new system.

Everyone except residents in the newest subdivisions will have access to cable TV at a $9.95 per month cost for basic service and $13.50 per month cost for expanded service.

The $13.50 will include wireless remote control and an addressable converter to be installed in each subscriber's home. Under the expanded service, approximately 15 more channels, including entertainment and additional movie channels, will be available. With the new system, residents should also notice a "dramatic" improvement in picture quality as well as improved service and dependability, said Wadman.

Greater Boston Cable representatives have been working to divide the town into approximately 85 sections or neighborhoods. Beginning October 1, residents in the first section will be notified of the changeover.

To facilitate the changeover process, a representative will visit each home in a particular section Saturdays and weekday evenings to explain the new system, set up a time when the converter will be installed, and make the changeover "as painless as possible." Visits will be set up at the customer's convenience, though Wadman stressed if the converter is not in place by the changeover date, customers will lose service.

The first changeover is expected to occur around November 1. At that time, all customers on a given street will have their cable systems shut down at 7 a.m. and the new system hooked up by 3:30 p.m. that same day. This will continue for the next five months on a street by street basis. Wadman added that changeover dates as well as street listings will be published in the Town Crier.

"The whole thing is a complex procedure. We hired extra people to take care of any problems ... We do expect people to be happy," an optimistic Wadman told the Town Crier.

Many of those present on Wednesday belonged to the Cable TV Task Force and the non-profit cable corporation. Some members pointed to the system's disadvantages.

They said under the new system the town has no control if prices go up or programs change. They said subscribers who have a VCR will not be able to watch television and record on their VCR at the same time.

Task Force Chairman Tony Carnabucci felt the company was invading customers' privacy by requiring a social security number or a $50 deposit when they are given a converter. Wadman explained this requirement helps the company keep some control as anyone can call up and add services to a customer's subscription.

Continental will take over Greater Boston Cable Corp.

Continental Cable will take over ownership of the Greater Boston Cable Co. the first two weeks in November. The sale is not expected to interrupt planned changeover procedures to hook Wilmington subscribers to the new cable trunk line.

According to Boston Cable's General Manager Richard Wadman, there will be no change in management or personnel and no planned changes in rates at this time.

Wilmington residents will be invited to a public hearing on the transfer. The hearing will be publicized in the Town Crier. The sale has to be approved by the Wilmington Board of Selectmen, Wadman added.

Baptist church fair and supper

The First Baptist Church, on Route 113 in Tewksbury, is having the first of two fairs on October 3, from 1 to 8 p.m. There will be hand crafted items, a holiday table and baked goods, all made by members and friends of the church. There will be a cheese table, children's table, used jewelry, pony rides and balloons.

Light refreshments will be sold from 1 to 4 p.m. and the ham and bean supper will be served from 5:30 to 7.

Reservations for the supper may be made by calling Lillian at 851-6362, or Gene at 851-6577.

The hours are such that patrons will be able to shop early for the best selections, or to go back after supper to get a few more items.

September 30 hearing on Wilmington sludge plant site

The proposal for a sludge plant in North Wilmington will be presented in a hearing next Wednesday night at the Wilmington Town Hall.

It is not without irony that the same parcel proposed for the plant is also up for rezoning in the special town meeting on Monday night.

The Massachusetts Water Resources Authority (MWRA) in August announced a list of twelve sites for potential use in its residuals management program. The MWRA is charged with rectifying a problem-ridden sewer system which presently dumps some 500,000 gallons of sludge into Boston Harbor every day. The MWRA is scheduled to stop dumping sludge into the harbor by 1991.

The Wilmington site would receive digested sludge from the Deer Island sewage treatment plant by way of Lynn South Harbor. Once in Wilmington a portion of the sludge would be composted, and the rest would be burned.

The announcement of the sites spurred a great deal of negative reaction. Nobody, it seems, wants a sludge plant in their town. At a hearing in Stoughton last week, some 1000 angry residents told the MWRA they did not want a sludge plant in their town.

The MWRA held a press conference this month to discuss the residuals program. On hand was Melanie Thomas, manager of the program, along with other officials.

Among the questions asked was what would happen if one of the sites were to be built upon. Thomas replied that the MWRA is monitoring the status of the sites. If one were eliminated by development, there would be no problem. If all three sites of a particular type were eliminated, the MWRA would return to its list and choose other sites in order of siting criteria.

Composting, she said, was the favored technology for sludge processing. The composting would be done in enclosed chambers, with air pumped into the sludge. When finished, the material would resemble loam, and would be a safe material to handle. Bags of composted sludge were handed out to reporters.

Composted sludge is classified in three levels. Level One can be used anywhere. Level Two is restricted, and must be approved for each particular use. It is safe for use on lawns, but not for raising food. Level Three carries a high level of heavy metals, and is quite restricted as to where it may be placed. When it is placed on property, there must be a notation on the deed.

Deer Island produces sludge that falls into Level Two. None in the state would fall into Level One, said Thomas.

The North Wilmington site for the proposed sludge plant is about 50 acres, most of which is owned by the Sciarappa family, and is under a purchase and sale agreement to Danco Development Corp. Danco is seeking to rezone the land from R60 to R20 to allow smaller house lots. A small portion of the site is industrial land owned by the Tambone Corp.

The MWRA has issued a set of three volumes called the Residuals Management Facilities Plan. One volume contains the site screening methodology, the second the site screening results, and the third the candidate options identification.

Public comments are being accepted in writing on the three reports. They should be addressed to MEPA (Mass. Environmental Policy Act unit) 100 Cambridge St. 20th Floor, Boston, MA 02202.

The public comment period has been extended from 30 to 60 days, and now runs through Nov. 13.

Neighbor Network seeks homes

Neighborhood Network is an emergency shelter program which serves youth ages 11-18. We provide shelter for youngsters via short-term foster homes for a period of one to 45 days with the average stay of the young being 30 days.

Although offered under the auspices of the Woburn Council of Social Concern, we are "Woburn" in name only. Neighbor Network presently serves six towns of the Mystic Valley Area, including Winchester, Wilmington, Burlington, Arlington, and Lexington.

The youth we serve come to us from situations where they have been emotionally, physically and/or sexually abused; oftentimes they have been neglected or exploited. Some of the teenagers we see are in need of a "cooling off" period after a major family crisis. These kids are from our communities and in need of our help.

Neighbor Network foster homes provide these youths with a safe, supportive environment. During their stay, both the youngsters and their families can begin to work on the issues that precipitated the need for emergency shelter.

As host parents, Neighbor Network families receive a daily stipend to help defray the cost of room and board. We also offer monthly training and support sessions as well as weekly meetings while a youth is in placement. Our 24 hour beeper service means that no host parent is ever alone; a staff member can be reached at any time, for any reason.

The need for emergency shelter is an on-going problem. Right now we are facing a critical shortage of temporary foster parents. It is a community problem that requires a community response. The numbers of runaway and throwaway youth have reached epidemic proportions. In order to help our teenagers, we must educate ourselves about the problem and become familiar with the available resources. Neighbor Network staff is available to speak to local church and civic groups regarding these issues.

Neighbor Network has proven very successful for those youths we have served. We have seen remarkable results. Unfortunately, we are unable to serve all of the adolescents appropriate and in need of our services due to the shortage of foster homes. In order to continue to be successful, we urgently need more families to open their homes.

If you are interested in hearing more about runaway and throwaway youth, Neighbor Network, or would like information on becoming a host parent, please contact Paula Giarrizzo at the Woburn Council of Social Concern, 935-6495.

Gun club to host shoots this Sunday

Two shooting events this weekend at the Chandler Street headquarters of the Tewksbury Rod & Gun Club will fill the air near town center with the sounds of shotgun-blasts and rifle-fire.

Beginning at 1 p.m. on Sunday, the club will be holding two public shooting events at the club's outdoor shooting ranges.

A target shoot involving WWII-vintage M-1 rifles will begin at 1 p.m. at the club, with both ammunition and rifles provided by the club for the $4 entry fee.

The second event, also beginning at 1 p.m., will be a benefit trap shoot, at $10 per shooter, with proceeds to help in rebuilding the Nashoba Sportsmen's Club headquarters. The Nashoba clubhouse was destroyed in a fire and the Tewksbury R&G will be raising funds to help out. Only the targets will be provided in the benefit trap shoot, as shooters will need to bring their own ammunition and shotguns.

So don't be alarmed at the sound of gunfire near town center on Sunday morning. It's only a pair of shooting contests, not an invasion.

TMHS girls start with split

The Tewksbury Redmen girls' field hockey team opened its season this past week with a tough loss against Chelmsford and a victory over Dracut.

The season opener was held on September 15 at Chelmsford. The Redgals gave a good showing, but were unable to score against the strong Chelmsford defense.

Junior wing Lisa O'Neill kept the defense on edge however, with a few strong breakaways down the field and senior Kathy Driscoll in net was able to defend effectively by making 10 additional saves. Kathy received some excellent defensive assistance in junior fullback Karen Morel and sophomore fullback Kerin Fiore.

Although the Tewksbury girls kept the pressure on until the final whistle was blown, they came up short and lost the game, 1-0.

In their second game of the 1987 season, the Redgals met Dracut in Dracut and pulled off an important win. This September 17 game started off slowly, but gradually picked up the much-needed momentum. Tewksbury's defense came alive in this game which was won by Tewksbury, 2-1.

The first goal was scored in the first half of play by junior inner Karen Colantuonio, assisted by senior forward Jessica Miller.

The second goal was scored shortly into the second half of play by aggressive junior forward Jennifer Drane, assisted by Karen Colantuonio. Dracut was not willing to sit down, however and gave Tewksbury a good run for the remainder of the game and eventually scored once.

Luckily, a second Dracut goal was called back in the second half due to a high stick call, giving Tewksbury possession once again.

Senior goalie Kathy Driscoll once again had an excellent game, saving 13 possible goals. Senior co-captain Jeanne Muise also played an excellent game on defense, sparking the Tewksbury team to victory.

In their first week of play, the whole team has improved greatly and now have not only the desire, but the momentum to keep on winning. The varsity lineup is as follows.

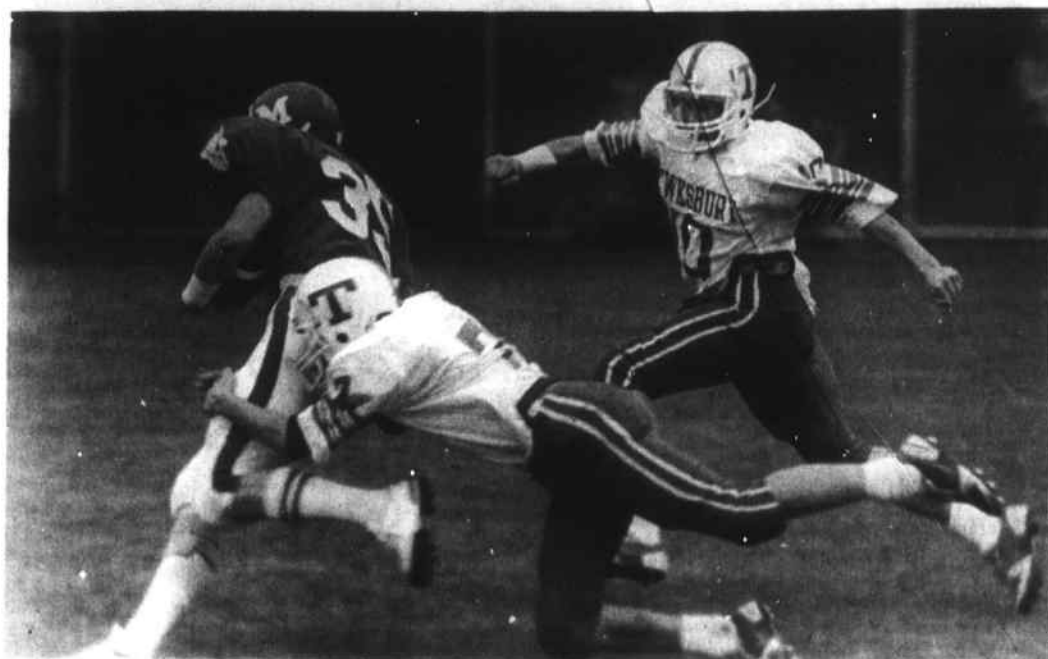

Senior co-captains, halfback Jeanne Muise and halfback Kris Romano; seniors Kathy Driscoll, Sharon Hanke, Laura Bullen and Jessica Miller; juniors, Suzette Beaulieu, Karen Colantuonio, Jennifer Doyle, Jennifer Drane, Karen Morel, Karen Nunziato, and Lisa O'Neill; sophomores Stephanie Beaulieu, Kerin Fiore, Karri Molander and Kimberly Davis.

WHS smothers Central, 14-6

The Streak is over

by Rick Cooke
Sports Editor

The Streak is finally over in Wilmington. Coach Ed Harrison's Wildcats are winners again after losing 11 straight games over two seasons, as WHS smothered Lawrence Central Catholic, 14-6 in the MVC opener for both teams Saturday at Alumni Field.

Wilmington suffered through an 0-10 season a year ago, but the locals won't go winless this season thanks to quarterback Dan Woods, halfback Don Sullivan, punter Dick Hersom and the entire defense that got the Wildcats untracked after a shaky start with a blocked punt in the second quarter.

Wilmington fell behind 6-0 early in the first quarter following a Central interception, but from that point on Woods and the WHS defense turned the game around.

Hersom uncorked one of five booming punts to set up Wilmington's first score in the second quarter. Hersom put the ball out on the Central one yard line and

Bright

This reception and run by Dave McSweeney (43) was one of the few bright spots offensively for Tewksbury Saturday as the Redmen got off to a slow start with an 8-0 setback at Methuen.

Girls belt Billerica

The Tewksbury High School girls' cross-country team opened the 1987 season with a solid 18-41 victory over Billerica. Although the hilly Billerica course was a tough three miles to negotiate on a hot day, the Tewksbury girls ran very well, sweeping the first four places.

Team captain Krissie Connor led the way, running a very solid and evenly paced race. Teammates Paula Torode, Joanne McNamara and Jennifer Harmon strode to the finish close behind Krissie, guaranteeing a TMHS victory.

Billerica girls Roberta Hennessey, Kerry Goguer and Tina Covine took the next three places. After that, however, it was all Tewksbury again, as Rachel Smith, Chrissy Juskiewicz and Chrissy Frotten finished close together in places eight, nine and 10.

The solid team effort, with the top four Tewksbury girls finishing within 50 seconds of each other, makes Tewksbury a power to be reckoned with in the Merrimack Valley Conference this season.

The TMHS boys' cross-country team had a tough time of it in their opening meet against Billerica. Although the TMHS runners all did their best on the tough course, they could not overcome the advantage Billerica won for itself by taking the top two places.

Jeff Rideout ran a strong race in his cross-country debut to get third for the Redmen. Following him were Ben Nichols and Tim Martin and they ran very well for fifth and sixth. The roof caved in on TMHS however, when Billerica grabbed the next four places.

One bright note in the Tewksbury defeat is the athlete's response to their adversity. There is strong feeling among the boys on the team that they will pull themselves up in their next competition and show what they can really do.

Both the boys and girls teams travel to Wilmington this week for a meet against the Wildcats.

WHS field hockey

Wilmington rolls early

Wilmington 6-Dracut 0

The Wilmington field hockey team registered its first win in 6-0 season opener vs Dracut.

Wilmington dominated play in the first half but could account for only one goal. The girls came on strong scoring four goals in the nine minutes of the second half. The final goal was scored at the 24 minute mark.

Jennifer DelNinno, the junior wing, ended the day with three goals and two assists. Co-cap. Jen Ryan scored a goal and an assist with Amy Lavina and Leann Bishop accounting for the other two goals. Assists were also awarded to Amy Caruso, Susan Killelea, and Laurie Robinson.

Wildcats defeat Lawrence

On Thursday the Wildcats travelled to Lawrence and came home with its second victory. At 13:04 in the first half, junior Leanne Bishop slammed home a Jennifer DelNinno lead pass for the only score in the game.

Sophomore goalie Gina Martiniello registered three saves. During the second half our "Amy" defense of Amy Caruso, Amy Lavina and Amy Hamilton prevented any Lawrence penetration.

Wilmington 4-Tyngsboro 1
Senior center halfback Amy Lavina scored two goals and an assist to aid in the 4-1 victory over Tyngsboro during Monday's home opener.

TMHS soccer

The Tewksbury High School varsity soccer squad began its season last week with their sights set squarely on another Eastern Mass. Tournament berth.

The Redmen are a member in the Merrimack Valley Small School Division Conference along with Dracut, Haverhill, Methuen and Wilmington. Each member of the Small School Division play each other twice. The MVC Large School Division includes Andover, Billerica, Central Catholic, Chelmsford, Lawrence and Lowell. Small schools will play each large school once for a 14 game schedule.

With a maximum of 18 games allowed, the Redmen have picked up four non-conference games. These games include a second game with Billerica (a game originally scheduled for Sept. 15, rescheduled to November 3), Lincoln-Sudbury, Weston and East Boston High, last year's Division Three state finalist.

All teams try to qualify for the state tournament. They can do this by either winning their division, or by accumulating 59 percent of the possible points during a season. A team gets two points for a win and one point for a tie. Eighteen games means a possibility of 36 points; 18 wins and two points. Fifty-nine of 36 points is a rounded off 22 points in order to make the state tournament.

The 1987 Tewksbury boys' varsity team has had a slow preseason start due to numerous minor injuries and sicknesses, but eventually if the health status improves, the Redmen should be extremely competitive against all opponents during the season.

The tri-captains include seniors Jeff Stone, a midfielder; Tim Quinn, a forward; and Dan Fiore, the team's goalkeeper. Other seniors include Marc Paglia, a back; Rob Adrian, a forward; Ron Perrin, a forward; Billy Martin, a back; Brian Anderson and Roy

Wilmington Youth Soccer

The Wilmington girls U-14 travel team won its season opener, a 1-0 thriller against Reading at home.

This was a tough defensive struggle by both teams however, Wilmington prevailed by scoring midway through the first half and holding Reading scoreless to the final gun.

The lone Wilmington goal was scored by Sarah Callahan from her center halfback position on an alert rebound play. Sarah played very well in her first start at that position.

Other players who played very well and kept constant pressure on the Reading goal were forwards Stacy LeCovera, Gina DiSantis and Julie Robinson as well as halfbacks Ellen Dehoff and Toby Kenney.

Although the offense played very well, the defense was super as they shutout a good Reading team. They also kept Reading bottled up in their own end for much of the game, and on the few occasions

Lavina started off the scoring by slamming home a Jennifer DelNinno pass. Then Jennifer DelNinno scored one of her own by tipping in a Lori Cormier shot.

In the second half, senior link Amy Caruso scored off a fine Lavina setup. Amy Lavina ended her great day with an unassisted blast from the top of the circle. Tyngsboro's lone goal occurred late in the game.

Defensively, seniors Amy Hamilton and Susan Killelea warded off an occasional Tyngsboro rally.

Redmen gear for tourney berth

Kinzler, forwards; Joe Seely, a midfielder; Derek Doherty, a forward; and Dave Bufano, a back.

Juniors include utility player Keith Krugh; midfielder John Boysen, and Jim Pollard; forwards Tom Walsh; backs Pat McCaffery and Derek Heartquist; and forward/back Brian Smith. Junior goalkeeper and back Chris Stys round out the junior group. The team's two sophomores, both backs, include Pat Frend and Brian Wahl.

Coaching the junior varsity team will be junior high industrial and graphic arts instructor, Timothy Soman, a native of England.

Coaching the first year freshmen team will be former Tewksbury varsity soccer captains Scott Thornton (1984) and his assistant (voluntary) Patrick Sands (1983). Steve Levine returns for another season as TMHS varsity coach.

Girls win opener, 1-0

when Reading did break through, Stacey played some outstanding soccer in goal to preserve the shutout and eventual win.

The defensive stars were Tina

Kelly, Ann Marie Barletta and Malissa Volpe at fullback, and Jennifer Rago who was a force at sweeper.

Skating program

The Wilmington Figure Skating Club has announced the beginning of its "Learn to Skate" program.

This program will be open to boys and girls ages five and up who have the desire to learn to skate. The highly qualified professional staff will be assisted by volunteer instructors to teach the beginner through advanced skater.

The classes will be held in the Ristuccia Exposition Center, located on Main Street (Route 38), Wilmington on Saturdays beginning October 3 from noon to 12:50 p.m. The program will run for 30 weeks.

Additional volunteer instructors are needed. If you enjoy working with children and have some skating experience, the program needs you.

For the more serious figure skater, the club is offering a "Patch and Free-style" session Mondays, Wednesdays and Saturdays. Interested skaters are welcome to take part.

For applications and information call 658-2412, 658-4681 or 658-6130.

Canoe rental: (Ron Swasey). Enjoy local and area ponds and streams. See the foliage from the water. Day rate is $8; $10 for the weekend. Call ahead to reserve equipment.

New York City: Ages 18 and over; $30, Sat., Dec. 5, 6:30 a.m. to 1:30 a.m. from the Swain School. Christmas shop at Macy's, plus see the holiday lights and sights or maybe even a Broadway Show.

Youths must be accompanied by an adult. We leave at 6:30 a.m. and return at 1:30 a.m. The cost is about half the normal fare. Sign up any weekday between 8:30 a.m. and 2:30 p.m. This is an inexpensive and hassle free way to visit the Big Apple.

Overnight in New York City: Ages 18 and over; $189 per person, Dec. 4 and 5 (Susan Delaney). We are pleased to offer a limited number of seats on a two day excursion to the Big Apple. Included in this package are two meals, dinner Friday at Charlie O's Antrium and breakfast at Windows of the World; in addition to admission to the Rocketts Christmas performance at Radio City Music Hall. Reservations should be made soon as space is on a first come, first served basis. A $25 deposit is due Oct. 1 with final payment due Nov. 1. Call for information or register any time.

Horribles parade: (Ron Swasey). Here we go with the 20th annual parade of horrors. Join us, one and all, on Halloween, Sat., Oct. 31. The parade forms next to the police station and marches to the WHS tennis courts, beginning at 6:45 p.m. Goodies galore await all creepy creatures! Adults should call if they wish to help conduct the festivities.

Maine outlet shopping: (Susan Delaney). Adults, $15; Sat., Oct. 24 from 9 a.m. to 6 p.m. from the Swain School. Have you shopped the new Maine Mall in the Kittery Outlet Center? Twenty-two factory outlets provide a wide variety for shoppers. The famous Kittery Trading Post and Weathervane seafood restaurant are also within walking distance.

The trip home will include a short windy tour of New Hampshire's rocky coast and a brief stop at Hampton Beach.

Disney World: (Susan Delaney and Ron Swasey). Last April school vacation we took 84 travellers to four Red Raider plays later the Cats swarmed in to block a Central punt out of the endzone for a two point safety.

The Wildcats took an 8-6 lead at halftime when they got the ball in excellent field position at the Central 30 yard line. It took the home squad just two plays to crack paydirt, as Woods fired a pass 15 yards to Joe Spencer and Sullivan ran around right tackle for the final 15 yards and the touchdown.

The Cats added their insurance score when they put together a 76 yard fourth quarter drive that was capped by a 28 yard Woods to Dan Cadigan TD connection.

Friday night Wilmington travels to Acton-Boxboro for a 7:15 p.m. non-league game.

Moynihan Lumber's 6th Annual "HOMEOWNERS' DAY"

Saturday, September 26th
9 a.m. to 4 p.m. Rain or Shine

Are you thinking about a home improvement you'd like to make... whether it's replacing those old and drafty windows...Putting in new kitchen cabinets...Replacing an exterior door...Whatever the project, chances are the products you'll want to use will be on display at MOYNIHAN LUMBER'S 6th Annual Homeowners' Day, Saturday, September 26th from 9 a.m. to 4 p.m. Representatives from all the major door and window and lumber and building materials companies will be there to join with Moynihan's experienced sales staff to provide you with all the latest product information. Special prices will be offered on many items but only for those who are in attendance on Homeowners' Day. But that's not all... Also on hand will be specialists in home improvement financing, architectural design and construction. And everyone who takes part has a chance of winning one of over 50 prizes to be awarded during the day. So if its information you're looking for without any sales pressure, then make plans to stop in at Moynihan's this Saturday.

Outdoors Column

by Bill Conlon
A short saying will often contain a thousand years worth of wisdom. For this reason I always keep a copy of Bartlett's Familiar Quotations near at hand, in case the need arises while writing a story to use a quick phrase that just says it all. But not all sayings are worth full-length columns -- though God knows I'll use most anything -- and herewith are presented a few bits of fluff gathered in a lifetime of outdoors wool-gathering.

Don't bother fishing if the wind is from the east -- This is one of my uncle's old saws, and for some mysterious reason it works. If the wind is from the east, the fish stay home. Why? Beats me.

Gun control means hitting your target -- This is my all-time favorite bumper sticker. If you can't hit what you're aiming at, you shouldn't be hunting. Sadly, you'll probably need to pay your dues and join a gun club, because public shooting ranges are mostly a thing the past, thanks to outrageous real estate prices. But practice, practice, and don't miss!

Fish are where you find them -- Forget all the fancy beepers and fish finders -- they may be helpful, but the best way to find fish is to know your pond. More than once I've seen guys sitting in a bass boat loaded down with more electronics than a B-1 bomber, but without any fish. Don't believe all you see on TV -- electronics are helpful, but practice makes perfect. Know your pond.

When lost, sit down -- Panic is your worst enemy when you're lost in the woods, so sit down and think a minute. Where might you have made a wrong turn? How are you set for survival gear like matches, compass, warm clothes, and so on? How long until dark? After a few minutes to rest, think and settle down, then you can plan out your next move.

Take nothing but pictures, leave nothing but footprints -- This gem is posted on a sign at Knopps Pond in Groton, but it should be printed on every fishing and hunting license -- and on every (grr!) beer can and tackle package as well. It's your planet, true, but you're only borrowing it from your grandchildren. Keep it clean, clean it up, or just stay home.

Don't carry anything white during deer season -- Another quip from Uncle John. When deer are startled, they flip their tails up and start bouncing away. That flash of white fur is about the size of a tee-shirt, and it sharply contrasts the green background. Sadly, some armed jerk (and there are many) might take an impulsive snap shot at a fleeing tail, so imagine what could happen if you whipped out a white handkerchief at the wrong moment. Blowing your nose is the all-time worst excuse for getting shot, so don't risk it.

Don't carry any red during turkey season -- The head of a wild turkey is bright red. Same jerks, different game animal.

You can catch a big fish on a small hook, but not a small fish on a big hook -- The smallest hook that won't bend will leave more options open. Besides, catching small fish is better than catching no fish at all, isn't it?

Don't touch the jug until the guns are in the rack -- No, not even a beer while cleaning the guns. It can wait.

You can't make stew out of tracks and droppings -- This used to be my worst deer-hunting sin, and my brother still suffers the curse. If you see fresh tracks, great. Fresh droppings, even better. But the deer aren't down at your feet, now are they? Quit looking at the clues and concentrate on finding the culprit! (Incidentally, the only way to check deer droppings for freshness, unless of course they're steaming, is to ... um ... grab a few and give them a squeeze.) (Or sniff.) (Yup.)

Deer are colorblind, ducks are not -- It was once my extreme pleasure to have two does walk by me in the woods, close enough to jam them in the ribs with my rifle-barrel, and I was dressed in day-glo orange. Colorblind as Ed Sullivan viewers. Ducks, however, tell each other apart by colored feathers. With quackers, if you don't blend in, you stand out. Either way, any slight movement will give you away no matter what you have on.

Well, those should do for now. Surely you have a few of your own, and I'd be tickled to hear them. Feel free to write me care of the Town Crier, and I'll even try to give credit for whatever I receive.

-- Tackle Box --

Last week this space held a short description of an upcoming fishing tournament set for this weekend. Better make that two fishing events coming up this Saturday.

The first derby, mentioned last week, will be held on Knopps Pond -- Lost Lake in Groton by the New England Bass Angling Association on Saturday, September 26 beginning at 6 a.m. Sign-up at the public boat ramp, down the road next to the Beef & Ale restaurant off Route 119 in Groton. The fee is $25. Cash prizes will be awarded for the heaviest total stringer of bass taken, up to five fish. Those too young to need a fishing license are also considered too young to pay the entry fee, so they can enter for free! Nice touch!

Another tournament set for this Saturday will take place on the Concord River, sponsored by the "Tackle Box" fishing emporium. Fishing starts at the 7 a.m. horn, and sign-ups are $10 each at the boat ramp off Rt. 225 in Bedford. Cash prizes will be given for the biggest bass and for the biggest pike or pickerel. Call 256-6768 for info.

Two shooting events are on tap for this weekend at Tewksbury Rod & Gun, both on Sunday. The first event will be an M-1 rifle shoot, from 1 to 4 p.m., at the group's Chandler Street clubhouse. Both ammo and rifles are included in the $4 entry fee, or $3.50 in advance. Prizes will be awarded to the top three shooters, and ladies are most certainly invited.

The second TR&G event will be the 2nd Annual Dick Foster Memorial Trap Shoot, again on Sunday, this time from 1 to 5 p.m. Proceeds from the $10 event will go toward the Nashoba Sportsmen's Club's rebuilding effort, after that clubhouse was wiped out in a fire. The trap shoot will involve 50 targets total, with 25 at 16 yards and the remainder at a range set by handicapping your first half results. A re-entry fee of $5 includes targets only. Sorry, but you'll have to bring your own ammo and scattergun for this one.

BOSTON, ENGLAND

By Frederick John Pratson
Special to The Christian Science Monitor

Boston, England
My original plan was to stay at an inn close by massive Lincoln Cathedral so as to be able to inspect this magnificent example of 13th-century Gothic architecture at my leisure. But every lodging with some appeal was booked because the annual county fair was in full swing.

Rather than settle on a place in the outskirts, I took a quick tour of the cathedral and then looked at my map to find an interesting alternative. To the southeast of Lincoln I saw Boston marked on the map. This impromptu discovery immediately perked up my spirit, and with renewed enthusiasm I headed for the town from whence our Pilgrim fathers had come.

I had driven south from the highlands of Scotland and was by this time well conditioned to the steep mountains, high hills, rolling countryside, and curving roads. As I drew closer to Boston, however, I found myself moving along what seemed like an absolutely level landscape, more reminiscent of the Netherlands than England. I was to learn later that this area of Lincolnshire is called "the Parts of Holland." This rich agricultural district is also known as Fenland, and the Romans were the first to reclaim the fecund soil for farming. Here is some of Great Britain's most fertile land, made exceedingly beautiful by tulips and other flowers, gabled houses, and windmills.

I was still about 10 miles from town when I caught sight of the famous Boston Stump rising above a layer of mist that was settling across the fens. The Boston Stump is the elegant, 272-foot high, Gothic tower of St. Botolph's Church. People who live in these parts say that the Boston Stump, the second highest church tower in the country, can be seen from more than 20 miles away.

In medieval times, when Boston, a member of the Hanseatic League, was an important port trading in wool and wine, the Stump was a vital navigational landmark for ships coming onto the Wash, a shallow inlet facing the North Sea. Boston is situated on the Witham River, which empties into the Wash. The sight of the Stump was indeed heartening, because the sun had set below the horizon, and I was looking forward to a hot meal and a cozy bed.

It was dark when I arrived in the Wide Bargate section of Boston, but fortunately ahead of me was a sign most welcoming to a tired American: the New England Hotel. Even though I didn't have a reservation, I was warmly received and assigned a comfortable room with a bath for around $50

Haying Time

HAYING TIME is here at Weiss Farm on Franklin Street in Stoneham where 17½ tons of it was recently brought in from Quebec. It takes 770 bales of hay to feed the horses that are kept at Weiss Farm for a period of 4 to 6 weeks and then it's more hay again.

When you get divorced

A friend of ours, recently divorced, dropped by the other morning to tell us:

Two things happen when you get divorced: first, you must deal with the pain of the actual separation; and second, you must deal with all your friends who feel they must try to fix you up with every available person they know from here to South Bend, Indiana.

In the year or so since my divorce I've learned to deal quite well with the first dilemma. I don't listen to old songs and I've listened to an analyst who gave me some very good advice.

He explains to me that when a human being is suddenly separated from another human being, one who was very close and shared the deepest intimacies possible between two people, it is normal to feel grief. It is how you cope with the grief that determines whether or not you will remain normal.

This analyst pointed out that human beings don't miss another human being, really. They miss the fulfillment which the other person provided their needs. It is not smart to sit around and pine away over the missing human being in your life. It is better to find some way to fill the need which that individual once filled. Once this has been done, you no longer miss that person. In other words, don't sit around listening to old songs and thinking about how Linda once made you so happy. Go out and find yourself a new woman who will provide you with the same fulfillment. Listen to new songs and make new memories. If Linda cooked good lasagna, don't hang around her lasagna, go out and

Now's the time to 'Weight-Away'

The time has come to slim down to look well in winter and fall clothes. On October 1 Winchester Hospital's Education Department will resume its popular "Weight Away" program.

This course meets six consecutive Thursdays from 6 to 7 p.m. in the Nutritional Research Center at Winchester Hospital. Sue Powers, R.N., community health educator, and Pamela Cote, R.D., dietitian, will lead the course and speakers will be members of the Winchester Hospital staff. Each week participants weigh in, view films, discuss their diaries, share menus and recipes, and set up individual and group exercise programs. Interested individuals should contact the Winchester Hospital

Education Department to reserve a place in a course group. Before the first course meeting, each participant is asked to make an appointment for individualized nutrition counseling with one of the hospital's registered dietitians. Participants are encouraged to bring copies of any diets they currently follow to that consultation for discussion. Fees for the course are $8 for a 15 minute consultation with the dietitian and $25, course fee. When accompanied by a written physician's order for weight reduction, the consultation fee may be covered by insurance plans. For more information and registration, contact Sue Powers, 729-9000, ext. 3010.

find yourself a new cook who'll fulfill your need for lasagna with a recipe of her own.

Well, you say, this is easier said than done. Take it from a man who knows: no, it isn't. Which brings me back to dilemma number two: every friend you've got thinks he or she can find that replacement, that person who'll fulfill those needs. Every friend you have wants to fix you up with the perfect person for you. Don't you just love it when a friend, out of the blue, approaches you and says, "Joe, have I got the girl for you?"

When it happens to me, right away I cringe. I look for the nearest couch and I hide. I've had too many bad experiences with those "perfect girls."

Take the incident which occurred to me just last week. I was sitting at the bar in the lounge of a local hotel, minding my own business and thinking about the hot tub I want to put in my house, when suddenly this old female friend strolled up next to me. I was tickled pink to see her, but after the usual amenities, she laid this on me: "Hey, I've been thinking a lot about you lately, and have I got a girl for you?"

The red lights started flashing inside my head. Sirens began wailing. Bullets were once again whizzing by my temples. Look, you fool. Look for the nearest couch.

"Well, Martha, I appreciate your thinking about me in that way, but to be honest with you, I..."

She raised a hand in front of my face and piped up. "No, really, you'd love her. She's — how old are you?"

Hesitantly, I responded. "Thirty-nine."

"I knew it. I know how to pick 'em I knew you were thirty-eight or thirty-nine. Perfect. She's thirty-nine, too."

That's wonderful, Martha. Just what I'm looking for. A thirty-nine year old woman. She probably has four kids from a previous marriage and one big eye in the middle of her forehead.

"She's divorced and she's a manager at Raytheon," Martha continued without so much as taking a breath between sentences. "You'll love her. It just so happens she's sitting with me at that table over there, the one with all the people. We're having a little work celebration. How about if I just casually bring her by and introduce her? Just say hi, and then later I'll swing by and you can tell me what you think. O.K.?"

Where's the nearest couch when you need one? "Yeah, Martha, sure. Whatever. I'll be here for a little while. Just swing by. I'll say hi. Sure. Why not?"

Martha laid a big sloppy kiss on my cheek bone — God knows what she was aiming for. Maybe the top of my head. My mother used to kiss me there when I was a good kid. It always meant she'd bring home a candy bar to me after she got out of work. I think Martha's kiss meant something like that also, only I wasn't about to stick around to find out what that candy bar looked like.

As soon as Martha scooted off I whipped out my wallet and searched for a ten dollar bill. I wasn't planning to stick around for my change. I just wanted to get out of that bar as fast as my skinny Jimmy Connors legs would carry me.

No such luck. This woman was determined to fix me up with her thirty-nine year old friend. Martha appeared next to my stool el pronto. No girl friend, though. Maybe I was in luck after all. Maybe her friend died of a rare disease in that short span of time, and Martha was standing there to give me the sad news.

"She's coming now," Martha announced.

"Listen, I've got to hit the road, Martha, so maybe we can do this some other..."

"I know what you're thinking. Don't worry, she lives far away. Nobody has to know anything about your business."

Just then her friend appeared next to Martha. Martha was right, all right. Her friend was thirty-nine. And she looked it. In fact, she looked old enough to be my mother. She must have had a rough life. Moments like these remind me of why I like to date twenty year old girls.

"This is Felicia," Martha said, rounding out the introduction by not only saying my name but emphasizing that this was the guy she'd told her so much about.

Felicia smiled. At least she had a full set of teeth. The last woman I was introduced to this way was missing one or two in the front, I think. She said, "Hi, Martha certainly has told me a lot about you."

God, what did she say? Felicia made it sound like I'm either John Holmes or I've just received my doctorate with a thesis on the reproductive cycle of the Bermuda conch.

To make a long story short, the conversation went on genially for about five minutes, then the two of them disappeared back to their table. Martha made sure she tossed a wink on the way. I'm not sure what that meant, either. But I was certain she'd let me know when she got around to returning. In the meantime, I entertained thoughts of disappearing myself, but I decided to stay. Martha was the type to find me, even at home, even if it's three in the morning.

She reappeared right on schedule. "I told them I was going to the ladies room. So what do you think? She something else, huh?"

"Yes, Martha, she's something else."

"Do you think there's a any chance, or what?"

A chance at what would have been a better way of putting it. "Well, to be honest with you, Martha, I don't think I'm ready yet. If you want to know the truth, I've been a little confused lately over my sexual preference. I need more time before I start dating again."

"I understand."

You do? I sat there just slowly shaking my head from side to side. The situation was getting too funny for words.

She continued, "I just thought you two would be great together."

I thanked her for her concern, and finally we said our farewells. Once again I'd escaped by the skin of my teeth.

On the way home, I kept thinking about those "I'd like to fix you up with my friend" scenarios. Only once did it ever work for me. By work, I mean that the girl turned out to be more than what I expected. In fact, I started to really care about her. Then, out of the blue she decided to go back with her old boyfriend. So much for getting fixed up. When you want it to work, it never does. So I decided after that to just forget about those "I'd like to...with my friend" deals. If I can't find partners on my own, I'll stay alone.

The ride home also proved a few guidelines on what to look out for when friends say they've got the perfect person for you to meet. I'll share them with you:

Always beware when a friend says to you, "Hey, is this girl a knockout." I've discovered that she's a knockout, all right. In fact, she's been knocked out so many times her face can't bounce back anymore.

Always be on guard when your friend tells you her friend is a natural blonde. This means she was a natural blonde when she was born. Ever since she's had to keep adding a peroxide to maintain her natural look.

St. Pat's Centenary Parade

Come one, come all to St. Patrick's Centenary Parade for an enjoyable afternoon Sunday, September 27, with entertainment beginning at 1:30 p.m.

St. Patrick's Church, Stoneham, built in 1887 is celebrating its 100th Anniversary. Many religious and social events have been planned to commemorate this centenary milestone. One of the social events is a mammoth, five-division parade which will be the largest parade in the history of the Town of Stoneham.

A combination of over 60 bands, drill teams, color guards, clowns, floats, marching units and side-walk musicians are prepared to entertain you, lift your spirits, and put a smile on your face.

Participants include Les E'Toiles de St. Hubert Corp from Quebec, Gaelic Highland Pipe Band from Connecticut, "J" the Clown, and the Shriners to name a few. Also Stoneham's own talented and very active Senior Citizen Group is putting together a float.

There is entertainment scheduled before and after the parade. At a site along the parade route, the Bridgewater Antiphonal Brass Society Band will combine the brass ensemble to produce an unforgettable sound starting at 1:30 p.m. and continuing during breaks in the parade.

Following the parade at 4:30 p.m. on the St. Patrick's School Grounds, the toe-tapping, hand-clapping 9:29ers Banjo Club will perform. The 9:29ers put on a varied program of music, vocalists and specialty acts.

The parade route begins on Forest Street, Stoneham, along Main Street to the Square and down Central Street.

Winchester Hospital offers exercises for new moms

Registrations are now being accepted for Winchester Hospital's prenatal and post-partum exercise program. The ongoing program is offered by Winchester Hospital Rehabilitation Services Department and Women's Health Services Program. Expectant and new mothers can attend as many sessions and for as long as they wish.

Barbara Reed, P.T., Director of Rehabilitation Services, encourages participants to get or stay in shape by stretching and strengthening muscles through gentle aerobic activities. Prenatal exercises can begin anytime one's obstetrician gives approval. They usually begin around the end of the third month. Post-partum exercises are advised for at least three months after delivery.

The sessions will be held Monday and Thursday evenings from 5:30 to 6:30 p.m. in the Kingsbury Seminar Room.

Fees are $5 per session, 10 for $40, and 20 for $70. The one-time registration fee of $10 includes an evaluation by the physical therapist. Participants should bring signed physician's approval. For information and registration call 729-9000, ext. 3250 between 8 a.m. and 4 p.m.

A short visit to Boston, England

From S-1

US (about $65 for a double), which included a full English breakfast. An electric kettle, china, tea bags, instant coffee, and Scottish shortbreads were on the dresser for me to use at will. The supper in the hotel's dining room, consisting of mushroom soup, veal cutlets, and jam and

The Boston Stump, or tower of St. Botolph's Church, used to guide sailors into port custard trifle, was very good, disproving the old image of bland British cuisine.

Early the next morning I walked toward Boston's main attraction — St. Botolph's Church. The town was alive with children, dressed in their snappy school blazers and ties, scurrying in every direction, and with tradesmen and women chattering and opening up their shops for another day's business. The huge cranes on the docks were already swinging in operation, loading vessels with coal, cattle, and agricultural products.

Although little is known about St. Botolph, it is said that he came to this part of England with his brother St. Adulf. In 654 they founded a monastery on this site, which was then called Icanhoh. Botolph was hailed by contemporaries and historians as a man of "re-suffering neglect in the past, has undergone extensive restoration since the 1930s. Actually, it is even more attractive when seen from a distance, such as from the other side of the Witham, which flows past its main entrance, or from outside of town, where the tower takes on an ethereal, Monet effect in various conditions of light.

The interior has an impressive medieval painted ceiling, and its misericords (supports in hinged church seats) are said to date from 1390. Its prize is a stained glass window commemorating Anne Bradstreet, who sailed to Massachusetts on the Arbella in the mid-1600s. She was the first Englishwoman to write poetry in America.

Her father and her husband helped to organize the Massachusetts Bay Company in 1629. This window also commemorates Jean Ingelow, born in 1820, another poet who wrote popular ballads such as "High Tide on the Coast of Lincolnshire."

St. Botolph's Church and Market Place are at the heart of town, and Boston is at its most interesting here. There are outdoor cafés and small hotels on the banks of the Witham. Nearby, on South Street, is the Guildhall, built in 1450, which now houses the Borough Museum of local history, which is full of prints, archaeological artifacts, marine exhibits, and old fire marks.

Within the Guildhall are the dismal cells in which the Pilgrim fathers were imprisoned in 1607 because they attempted to flee to Holland seeking reli-markable life and learning." He was such a popular figure in medieval England that those seeking enlightenment, such as St. Ceolfrid from Wearmouth, traveled long distances to Boston just to converse with Botolph.

The name Boston is a corruption of its second appellation — Botolph's Town. The Puritan émigrés from this region imparted the name of Boston on what would become the capital of their new commonwealth in Massachusetts. And the old usage of "Botolph" can be found as the name of a street and that of an exclusive men's club in New England's Boston.

When I visited the church, it was undergoing a dramatic transformation. Many centuries of grime, soot, and mold were being gently steam-cleaned from its exterior surfaces. The natural beauty of the stone and the superb artistry of long-forgotten masons and carvers that had been hidden to other generations were being uncovered. St. Botolph's church,

Windmills in Boston, England, record early ties to Holland

gious freedom. William Bradford, in his journal, speaks of seven of them spending several months in Guildhall confinement.

Also on South Street and next to the Guildhall is Blackfriars Theater, built in the 13th century as a refectory of a Dominican friary. On the other side of Guildhall is Fyde House, built by Boston's three-term mayor, William Fyde, in 1726. Fyde House has an American Room which is reserved for visitors from the United States, such as blood and spiritual kindred from Boston, Mass.

When you are touring the eastern length of England, from Cambridge to Durham, do take a brief diversion to Boston in Lincolnshire and experience another strong link in the chain that irrevocably binds Britain and America together in common heritage.

BOSTON

ROVING from S-3

Some guys like bleach blondes. Those same guys oftentimes go for girls with bodies like Dolly Parton's. I prefer the Belinda Carlyle look myself.

Be on the lookout when a friend tells you the girl he or she has for you has the prettiest nose and teeth on the face of the earth. The girl probably looks like an NHL goaltender with a nose like Jimmy Durante's. Falling in love with this one means an expensive nose job and dentures.

I've learned from past experiences that when a friend tells you the girl they have for you is tall and thin it usually means with stilts and a two year gift certificate to Richard Simmons'. The ones who are truly tall and thin aren't looking to get fixed up with anybody, believe me. They are already spoken for.

Finally, there is the matter of age. I suspect that my friend Martha may have lied a tad about Felicia's age. Thirty-nine, my derriere. She had to be at least fifty. Fifty's O.K. Don't get me wrong. But fifty isn't O.K. when you're looking for twenty-three. I may stink in math, but I know twenty-three goes into fifty at least twice. Be aware, fellows.

Now, one more thing: I've got a few excuses to use when faced with embarrassing situations, like the one I was in with Martha.

Confusion over sexual preference always works well, especially these days. I've met guys who look like Arnold what's-his-name who turned out to be gay. Women will buy this excuse easier these days than they would have ten years ago.

When the situation is really tough, and your friend doesn't buy being gay as a sufficient reason not to meet her friend, then you have to unload some heavy duty ammo. Such as, I'm thinking about going through a sex change operation. This is bound to work. No woman wants to deal with that headache, no matter how good-looking you are.

Tell your friend you've decided to become a born again missionary in Africa. No woman wants to live under those conditions. Unless of course the girl you're being fixed up with turns out to be one of those dogood liberals who has it in her that she can change the world in her lifetime. In which case you might as well move on to excuse number five.

Tell her your mother needs you at home for at least the next decade. Women hate a mother's boy.

If all else fails, tell your friend you've just been asked to go on a dangerous secret mission for the government, and you're not likely to come back in one piece. No woman wants her man in need of assembly.

If after all this you are still being hounded by friends to meet the "perfect person for you," then I would suggest you move to Australia and take on a new identity.

I'll see you Down Under, mate.

BENEFIT DANCE

A New England square and contra dance will be held Saturday, Sept. 26, 8 p.m. at the Concord Scout House sponsored by the Concord-San Marcos Sister Cities Committee. The caller is Dan Watt of Antrim, N.H. with music by the new and popular band "Open to Suggestions".

Proceeds will go to the ambulance fund for San Marcos, Nicaragua. Beginners and singles are welcome. All dances will be taught.

To preserve the new dance floor the hall management requests all to bring a change of shoes for dancing. For additional information call 369-7091.

TIP O'NEILL

There will be a lecture by Tip O'Neill at Salem State College, presented by sixth annual SSC Series on Monday, October 19 at 7:30 p.m. in the O'Keefe Sports Center, Canal St., Salem. Tickets are $10, $20, and $34. Group, senior citizen, and student discounts. Free parking and handicapped accessible.

For information or tickets, call the SSC Office of External Affairs & Development at 741-6000, ext. 202 for information or tickets.

PARENT AIDE

Are you someone others turn to for guidance and support? Do you care enough about others to really listen to them when they need you? Does it help you to know that you are helping someone else? If so, you may be a perfect candidate for Catholic Family Services Parent Aide Program.

With training and ongoing supervision volunteer Parent Aides are often able to have a profound effect on highly stressed families. Parent Aides have the time and flexibility needed to establish a trusting caring relationship with a parent who may have no one.

Volunteering a few hours a week does make a difference. We need your help. Please call Catholic Family Services at Reading at 942-0690.

TOPSFIELD FAIR

Topsfield Fair again offers an opportunity to amateur performers to compete in the second annual talent contests during the Fair, October 3-12.

Age categories are: Five to 10 years; 11-16 years, and 17-adult.

Preliminaries will be held on Saturday, Oct. 3 at noon on Coolidge Hall stage. Finals will be on Sunday, Oct. 11 at 6 p.m. in Coolidge Hall. Prizes will be awarded to the winner in each age group.

Entries may be made by calling the Fair office at (617) 887-2212.

BOSTON TEA PARTY

Boston Tea Party Ship and Museum — There's no better place to combine a good time with a history lesson than aboard the full-scale working replica of the Tea Party Ship. Visitors say history comes alive for them when they toss tea chests overboard in their own symbolic protest. Audio-visual presentations in the adjacent museum and lively discussions with colonial-costumed guides add to the feeling of having really been at Boston's most famous protest over 200 years ago. Complimentary tea, of course. Located at the Congress Street Bridge, on HarborWalk, Boston's waterfront walking trail.

Effective October 1, hours are: Daily 9 a.m. to 6 p.m. Admission: Adults $3.25; Children (5-12) $2.25; under age 5 free. Group rates available. For additional information call (617) 338-1773.

SOFIA CHAMBER ORCHESTRA

On Wednesday, September 30 at 6 p.m., the Isabella Stewart Gardner Museum will present a program by the critically acclaimed Sofia Chamber Orchestra.

Considered one of the finest ensembles in Europe, the Sofia Chamber Orchestra will perform from a repertoire ranging from Baroque classics to contemporary music. The orchestra consists of 15 string players and is led by conductor and composer Emil Tabakov.

A reception follows the lecture. Parking is courtesy of Simmons College, off Avenue Louis Pasteur. General public welcomed, $7.50. For more information, please call the membership office, 566-5643.

EDAVILLE RAILROAD

Cranberry Harvest Days — Cranberry Harvest Days began at Edaville Railroad in Carver on Sept. 19 and continue through Oct. 11. The family festival features a narrated 5½ mile train ride through the colorful cranberry bogs where the berries are under cultivation.

On weekends, the harvest celebration includes a quilt exhibit and raffle, cranberry screening demonstrations and a craft show and sale. Special weekend events include the historical Civil War encampment, Oct. 3 and 4; and the Antique Gas and Steam Engine Meet, Oct. 10 and 11.

Edaville Railroad is open daily, Monday through Friday from 10 a.m. to 3 p.m. and Saturday, Sunday and holidays from 10 a.m. to 5 p.m. The family fun park is located 5 miles north of I-495, off Route 58 in South Carver. For more information, call 866-4526.

BOSTON'S CHURCHES TOUR

Enjoy a rare opportunity to explore a part of Boston's rich architectural heritage while visiting historic churches of the Back Bay.

The Boston Preservation Alliance is sponsoring the first annual self-guided church tour which will take place on Sunday, Oct. 4, from 1 to 5 p.m. The nine magnificent churches included on the tour are: Arlington Street Church, Church of the Covenant, Emmanuel Church, First Baptist Church, First Lutheran Church,

New Old South Church, Our Lady of Victories and Trinity Church.

Frequent talks will be given about the art, architecture and decorative arts including stained glass, in addition to brief musical programs.

Admission to the tour will be $12 per person the day of the tour and $10 per person in advance. Tickets will be available at Bostix (Faneuil Hall) or phone charge through Teletron, 1-800-382-8080 in advance. Tickets will also be available the day of the tour, Oct. 4th, at 338 Boylston Street.

AARP plans fall foliage trip to New Hampshire

Leonard Gebhard, AARP Melrose Chapter 1124 Tour Chairman, is pleased to announce that plans for a one day New Hampshire trip for Tuesday, October 20, have been completed.

The trip by Deluxe Motor Coach will include a sightseeing tour of Portsmouth, New Hampshire, a scenic "Seacoast Village By The Sea," with a local tour guide; a beautiful "Inland Cruise" from Portsmouth Harbour, into Great Bay, a magnificent, large body of water, smooth, without a ripple on it, that has an almost wilderness setting to it; a cruise that will last for over two hours.

There will be a complete lunch at "Warren's Lobster House" in Kittery, Maine, where you can choose from among five entrees. Warren's also boasts one of the largest and finest salad bars in all of New England.

After lunch a visit to Albacore Submarine Park, where a professional tour guide will take you on a tour of the "Drydocked" Albacore Submarine, where you will learn of the valuable contribution it has made to the United States Navy.

The Motor Coach will depart from Melrose Highlands Congregational Church at 8:30 a.m. sharp, and return at 5:30 p.m. The cost, which includes everything, is $44 per person.

Members still have time to reserve seats for the Berkshire, Mohawk Trail, September 30, October 1, and 2 bus trip which features a trip to Tanglewood, Norman Rockwell Paintings at Stockbridge, the Clark Art Museum and four points of interest at Bennington, Vermont. Complete cost per person is $215 for twin; $265 for single and $205 for triple. You will stay two nights at the Williams Inn, Williamstown, which boasts a magnificent dining room, lounge and indoor swimming pool.

For reservations for either trip, please call Carol Johnson at 665-1796. Make checks payable to AARP Chapter 1124 and mail to Mrs. Katherine Kennedy, 192 Kennedy Drive, Apt. 404, Malden, Ma. 02148.

The bus leaves on Wednesday, September 30, from the Congregational Church, Melrose Highlands, at 8:30 a.m. and returns approximately 5 p.m. on Friday, October 2.

Arrangements should be made for transportation to and from home as there will be no parking allowed in the church parking lot for the three days.

President Carolyn Norton would like to thank the people at Burger King and Stop and Shop in Stoneham and Mr. McAree and his staff at J.J. Grimsby in Melrose for their generous donations which helped make the September 11th American Association of Retired Persons, Melrose Chapter 1124 a big success.

The next meeting of the AARP Chapter 1124 will be held on Friday, October 9 at 1:30 p.m.

Cancer program at Winchester

The problems of coping with cancer are many and complex. Individuals with cancer and their family members often want to talk with others who have experienced cancer to hear how they have managed to handle illness they face each day.

As a public service, the Social Services Department at Winchester Hospital sponsors a free program for cancer patients, their families, and their friends. The group meets the first and third Wednesday of each month from 7 to 8:30 p.m. in the Social Service Department. Its next meeting is scheduled for Wednesday, October 7.

Each discussion focuses on a different issue: sharing of experiences, explanations of treatment options, presentations of nutrition options, techniques to maximize the body's defenses to aid recovery, explanations of community and hospital resources available as a support system, and discussions of skills patients and their caregivers can develop.

For more information and registration, contact the Social Services Department, Winchester Hospital, 729-9000, Ext. 3104.

Hellraiser Short takes

Short Takes

Hellraiser Starring Andrew Robinson, Clare Higgins, Sean Chapman. Directed and written by Clive Barker. Produced by Christopher Figg. Rated R (sexual situations, gore and violence).

Cenobites are leather clad, other-worldly beings that exist to give pain. They lure people in with a magical Rubic's Cube that opens the door to another dimension. But once you call them, you're stuck with them.

Someone who called and wished he hadn't is Frank (Sean Chapman), the degenerate black sheep of a seemingly normal family. The guy has chased after every thrill imaginable, so he buys the cube from a curious-looking Oriental gentleman thinking it will give him a jolt to end all others. It did, but it also ended Frank.

Enter Frank's family, who has just moved into the old homestead. They think Frank is in trouble and on the run again, when in reality his corpse is under the floorboards. Brother Larry (Andrew Robinson) cuts his hand while moving in and some of his blood drips through the cracks in the floor and through the cracks in Frank, causing Frank to literally pull it all together. But Frank is curiously out of his skin and convinces Larry's wife Julia to lure people to the house, because the more blood Frank drinks, the more skin he grows. This is fine by Julia, who had an affair with her brother-in-law Frank and thinks old hubby Larry is a boor.

What we have here is a very good idea for a very creepy movie by British novelist Clive Barker, based on one of his short stories, "The Hell-Bound Heart." Unfortunately, it sounds better than it is.

You don't get much more than the basics with Barker, who acted as both writer and director on the film. He didn't feel the need to give us any background on his characters, so you never learn anything about the Cenobites, they just appear. We never know why Julia thinks it's just dandy to murder people and hold hands with an oozing monster who vaguely resembles someone she once loved. We never even figure out how Larry can live in the same house with a rather sloppy monster, but never happen to go into the room where Frank snacks on the lonely men Julia brings home. Barker may not know it, or admit it, but these details are important to the audience.

Barker, who is quite famous for his scary writings in Europe, claims he wants to continue to make movies. But, he's going to have to learn that the audience can only suspend their disbelief so far. A few details make the gore a little easier to swallow, so to speak. And a little humor counterbalances the bilious feeling one gets after a particularly splattering scene.

Tough Guys Don't Dance proves that one doesn't have to be talented to be famous, or Norman Mailer would be pushing a broom somewhere. A murder-thriller-drama-love story that makes almost no sense, it's bound to go down in the annals of film history as a camp classic. It really is worth seeing if you need a good laugh, because the unintended humor will have you rolling in the aisles. Ryan O'Neal and Isabella Rossellini sleepwalk through their parts, as if they knew they shouldn't have been there in the first place. And Mailer, who can barely see through the cloud of testosterone blocking his senses, delivers murky images set adrift in a sea of machismo. Rated R.

Fatal Attraction is an off-beat thriller about a family man who has an affair with a loony-tunes editor. Glenn Close is chilling as the unbalanced woman who doesn't want to be cast aside and Michael Douglas is every bit her equal as the hunted lover. The camera work is a little strange, and Adrian Lyne is a manipulative director relying on sensationalism, but this is such edge-of-your-seat fun that it's best to close one eye to the flaws and go with the flow. Rated R.

The Pick-up Artist is billed as a comedy, but don't buy it, this is really a drama with a few funny moments, very few indeed. Robert Downey, not the most convincing of actors, plays the young man led through life by his hormones and not his brain cells. He meets his match in Molly Ringwald, a museum guide with family problems he thinks he can cure. Except for Ringwald's charming performance, there's not much here that hasn't been in another movie first. Rated PG-13.

The Principal might not send the best moral message of might makes right, but there is something intriguing about a film that takes such chances. Jim Belushi plays a screw-up of a teacher who's assigned the toughest high school in the district. Using strong arm tactics, he tries to get rid of the worst offenders and push the rest into classrooms. It's nasty, dark and what sentiment there is borders on the sloppy, but it remains an interesting idea. Rated R.

The Big Easy is easily digestible fun. The plot may have more than a few loose ends that are never quite sewn up, but this is so entertaining it doesn't much matter. Smiling that famous boyish grin, Dennis Quaid steams up the room with Ellen Barkin, who comically stumbles through her role. He's a corrupt New Orleans cop, she's a tough-minded D.A. and with all that humor, romance and lively Cajun music, the fumbling violence of the plot is easily overlooked. Rated R.

House II: The Second Story is the boorish sequel to House, an insipid horror/comedy about a haunted house that was not particularly amusing the first time. But as we did see it, we already know all the gags and punch-lines that were simply warmed-over this time around. Rated PG-13.

Hamburger Hill is an unfocused war story about the taking of a muddy lump of land in Vietnam that never hits the emotional chords activated by other recent films on the subject. The main problem, aside from the right-wing ramblings, is that the soldiers, none of whom are recognizable stars, could be interchangeable, so we can never form a bond with them. Rated R.

Dirty Dancing is definitely a guilty pleasure, as it's not a great movie, but it certainly is a lot of fun. "Saturday Night Live" visits a Catskill Mountain resort as Jennifer Grey learns about passion from Patrick Swayze, a dance instructor from the wrong side of the tracks. While most of the plot was written by the numbers, the dance sequences are lively and sexy and, most importantly, this little film has a lot of heart. Rated PG-13.

No Way Out is a beautifully made film with one of the silliest plots you may encounter on film. This military/murder/spy story has plenty of Ludlum-esque paranoia and tense situations, fine performances and high production values, but there isn't much point if you don't buy the basic premise. Rated R.

Can't Buy Me Love marks a low-point for the Disney studios, which distributed this tasteless tale of teenage angst assuaged by money. If you believe that popularity can be bought and that sexism is okay, this movie is for you. The rest of us will be watching Snow White again. Rated PG-13.

Jean De Florette paints a wonderful picture of familiar love, greed, perseverance and destruction. Gerard Depardieu emits sparks as the hunchback determined to make his small farm in the French countryside of the mid-1920's a success, while Yves Montand is icily cool in his destructive calculations. The beautiful images are enriched by a leisurely pace and a subtle color scheme, and it is probably the best film ever to come out of France. Rated PG.

Retired Men's Club to celebrate 25th Anniversary

On Saturday, September 26 the Retired Men's Club of Wakefield will hold an all-day celebration of the club's 25th anniversary, a quarter of a century of promoting sociability, fellowship, educational and craft opportunities.

Since its beginning on September 12, 1962 when 21 retired men met at the First Parish Congregational Church to form the club, men from 32 communities in the North Shore area and Southern New Hampshire have joined until the present membership is well over 600.

On September 26 the general public will be able to see many of the hobbies, arts and crafts of the members starting at 9:30 a.m. when about 40 booths and tables will display them in the basement dining room of the First Parish Congregational Church in Wakefield, the club's regular meeting place.

From George Reid's art to Arthur Swanson's wood-working, almost every pastime imaginable will be seen. The following exhibitors are: Tony Andiolio, Wheel of Fortune; Harold Armitstead, old cameras; John Austin, linoleum block printing; Jim Boyd, stamps; Tony Catanzano, rugs and chairs; Mal Choate, club history; and Tom Coughlan, John Medland and Frank Wiseman, model trains.

Also, Harry Dee, pharmacy; Bill Denhard, beekeeping; Lee Donley, coins; Paul Ehler, signs and cents; Milton Freeman, photography; Wallace Fugelstad, Swedish woodcraft; Fran George, ham radio and paintings and art by George and Hallett Howe, Forest Musser with 3-D art work. Charles Kelley has 3-D slides; Bill Loughan and Robert Burns, knick knacks; Homer Lovering, model making and whittling and Ed Lynch, hobbies that improve the mind.

Also, Les Merrifield, pictures in wool; Richard Merrill, dolls and toys; Howard Moore, bicycling; Henry Murphy, post cards; Andy McHugh, spoons; Joe Pelletier, old cameras; Fred McMahon, woodworking and toys.

Also, Ernie Spicer, cameras; William Tassinari, metal art work; John Vernon, olio; Albert Wescott, place mats; and Les York, scouting.

The exhibits will be open until 3 p.m. and there will be a $1 admission fee to defray expenses.

During the day the Retired Men's Camera Club will be showing the best of members' slides in an adjacent room. This sub-group of the main club has over 70 members and meets twice a month with excellent programs. Members also bring their ladies to the meetings.

The Retired Men's Travel Club will also have a special program. Although only several years old, this activity has proven to be a very popular sub-group of the club, not only discussing travel and showing slides of interesting trips, but also having day trips and overnight travel groups going away for as long as two weeks.

The Retired Men's Club Band, under the direction of 92-year-old Chester Card, a former member of Sousa's Band, will present a program of varied selections in the First Parish Vestry from 1 to 2:30 p.m. This excellent band entertains the club twice each year and is continually sought after by citizens groups, nursing homes and community assemblies. The pride of the club, the band plays at the Deerfield and Topsfield fairs. Other musical entertainment is also planned for the day.

A catered roast beef banquet, with appropriate speakers, will conclude the day's festivities, starting at 7 p.m. in the gaily-decorated dining hall. A display of posters containing the names and dates of tenure of each of the club's past presidents will also decorate the hall. The club owes much to the excellent leadership and zeal of its past presidents, many of whom are involved in the planning and operation for this gala first quarter-century anniversary.

The co-chairmen of the festivities are Thomas Coughlan and Ralph Wentzel. Sub-committees are headed by: Program, Paul Ehler; Promotion, George Richards; Exhibit Arrangements, Norman Clark; Banquet, Ralph Wentzel; Finance, Robert Mathias; Supplies, Charles Hayward; Refreshments, George Deveau; and Reception/Decorating, Nelson Phinney.

Taking control of your emotions and your life

Everyone deals with stress. Occasionally stress can endanger health and well-being.

"Taking Control of Your Emotions and Your Life," a six-week program to help individuals develop skills to deal with life's stresses, health, and their sense of personal well-being, is being offered by the Education Department at Winchester Hospital.

Following a free introductory session, Thursday, Oct. 1, the course will be presented on six consecutive Thursday evenings from 7:15 to 9:15 p.m. from Oct. 8 through Nov. 12 in the Education Conference Room at Winchester Hospital.

The course will be presented by David I. Finkelstein, Ph.D., and Jo M. Solet M.Ed./ORT. Dr. Finkelstein is a licensed clinical psychologist with Wallis Court Associates in Lexington. He is a member of the consulting staffs at the South End Community Health Center, the Biobehavioral Treatment Center in Brookline, and Brockton Community Hospital.

Ms. Solet is a registered occupational therapist and a Ph.D. candidate in psychology at Boston University. Her special interest is in behavioral medicine and psychoimmunology. She has been a lecturer at Tufts University and has written a number of publications.

A course fee of $90 will be due Oct. 8. Because registration is limited, pre-registration is suggested. For information and registration, individuals may call the Winchester Hospital Education Department at 729-9000, Ext. 3010.

NEW BUSINESS

EXECUTIVES LEARN HOW TO PROPERLY EAT CERTAIN FOODS

Based on the past popularity and positive reviews of the Executive Etiquette seminars at The Ritz-Carlton, Boston, the hotel is pleased to announce the continuation of this professional development program. The following dates have been selected for fall seminars: Saturday, September 26; Wednesday, October 14; Friday, November 6; Friday, December 4.

Each course begins promptly at 10 a.m., includes a gourmet luncheon and concludes at 2 p.m. Enrollment fee is $75 per person. The Executive Etiquette Seminars will continue under the direction and expertise of Dr. Wayne Phillips and Ms. Linda Phillips, principals of The Executive Etiquette Company, who conduct regular management training seminars for corporations.

Instruction highlights proper introductions; discussion of the table setting with specifics including crystal, utensil and side plate positioning; how to properly eat certain foods; selecting wines and business luncheon protocol. Additional discussion includes corporate manner, office telephone etiquette and business card protocol. Seminar attendees partake in a gourmet luncheon which allows the opportunity to practice the fundamentals of the working luncheon.

To arrange reservations for Executive Etiquette at The Ritz-Carlton, call The Ritz-Carlton Catering Department at (617) 536-5700, ext. 314. Enrollment is limited. Gift certificates may be arranged. For more information on The Executive Etiquette Company, call (617) 823-6003.

FINANCING A NEW BUSINESS

The Simmons College Graduate School of Management will host a panel discussion on "Women in Entrepreneurship: Financing A New Business," on Wednesday, September 30 at 6 p.m. The seminar will focus on sources of capital and strategies for women who are starting or running a business.

The program will be held at Simmons' Graduate School of Management, 451 Marlborough Street, Boston. The admission fee is $5.00. For information, please call 536-8390.

CREATIVE PERFORMANCE

The October business meeting of the Massachusetts Chapter of the American Society for Training and Development will feature: "Encouraging Creative Performance" on Wednesday, October 7 at the Sheraton, Needham.

DeAnne Rosenberg, consultant and author will explore the conditions that enhance or inhibit innovation and creativity among professionals in the workplace.

The American Society for Training and Development is a non-profit organization which serves those who have a professional interest in achieving a better utilization of human ability and potential in business, government, and the general community. It is the world's largest organization in the field of employer-based training, representing 50,000 professionals in the field. Non-members are always welcome. To register for this event call Maureen Bennett at (617) 376-8797 Monday through Thursday shoppers. The new off-price store carries designer women's clothing in over 30,000 sq. ft. of retail space.

Stars of David have formed a Mass. Chapter

Stars of David, a national, non-profit support network for Jewish and partly-Jewish adoptive families, founded in 1984, has recently formed a Massachusetts Chapter.

Richard and Maura Berry, residents of Natick and parents of two children, have been named co-leaders of this statewide organization.

Initial meetings have been held and a survey has been mailed to current members. Goals for the newly organized group include developing an increased number of activities, more educational programs, community awareness programs, as well as continued Jewish holiday celebrations.

Rabbi Susan Abramson, co-founder of the Stars of David and Rabbi of Temple Shalom Emeth, Burlington, will continue to serve as the group's advisor. Temple Shalom Emeth will continue to serve as the group's home. Stars of David is co-sponsored by the Northeast Council of the Union of American Hebrew Congregations and Temple Shalom Emeth.

A Sabbath evening service will be held on Friday, October 23 at 8 p.m. at Temple Shalom Emeth in Burlington. Other events planned for the Chapter include small group socials and discussion evenings in November in members' homes and a family Chanukah party in December. Interested individuals and families are encouraged to attend Chapter events and are welcome to join our extended family of members.

For further information about Massachusetts Stars of David and the Chapter events mentioned above, please call Richard or Maura Berry at 653-2687, or Rabbi Susan Abramson at 272-2351.

Woodchips

By ANTHONY MANCONI

"Why on earth does a beautiful girl like you want to become a nun?" That question was asked a veritable potential future Jeannette MacDonald, Ingrid Bergman or Grace Kelly. The young lady smiled and answered the question saying, "I want to become a Sister of St. Joseph." As a member of that order for many years, she has dedicated her life to teaching and molding the lives of countless boys and girls. Many of them have carried those principals, taught by these wonderful Sisters, into their private lives, thus becoming a credit to their city, state and nation. I saw her at Mass last week and I'm happy to say that she is just as beautiful as the day she entered the convent. Her splendid operatic caliber voice could be heard in the singing of the hymns and responses giving "Honor and Praise for the greater glory of God."

My cousin, Peggy Walsh joined a cloistered order of nuns at about the same time. One of their strict rules of silence was to be broken by saying only two words every ten years. After ten years Peggy said, "cell cold." After ten more years she said, "food bad." The Mother Superior silently jotted the complaints down, but nothing was done about them. Peggy waited ten more years and with a burst of pent up emotion shouted, "I Quit!" "Good," the Mother Superior exclaimed. "You've been nothing but a chronic complainer anyway."

Blackie Vega answered an apparent "wrong" number at Mickey's Spirit World. "Is Victor there?" the caller asked. An irritated Blackie Vega exploded with, "Look, Buster, there are no Victors here, but there are plenty of 'Born Losers'." John Shea said that the Boston Tea Party was a protest against "Taxation without Representation." John then smiled and said, "You know Woodchipper, Taxation WITH Representation ain't so HOT, either!"

My family settled in Woburn when my father bought a house from Jeremiah O'Donnell who spoke with the most beautiful progue this side of Ireland. "Giovanni," he said. "I'm going to show you a house that is without a 'flaw.' 'Good grief,' my father exclaimed, 'what in the world are we going to 'walk' on?"

Roger Moore dug deep into his pocket and came up with a thin dime and gave it to a ragged looking panhandler. "Tell me," Roger asked, "How did you happen to sink so low?" The stranger looked at the worn dime in disbelief and said, "I guess it was because I was like you, extravagant!" I'm sure that North Reading Fire Chief, Fred Shaw is proud of the sprucing up of the grounds of the station. The work was done by the Garden Club with material donated by David Arsenault of Pinewood Garden. The photo in the North Reading Transcript shows Garden Club members Coleen Dolan and Marilyn Crowley (who are as pretty as the flowers they were arranging) doing a wonderful job.

When I applied for a job at Pinewood Gardens, Walter Arsenault asked me, "What's a weed?" "I pull up everything and if it grows again — THAT'S a weed." "Woodchipper, how can you tell a Dogwood tree?" "That's easy," I replied, "by its BARK." I ended up working for a big tree outfit that had "branches" all over the country.

"Holy Smokes", if all the new teachers are as beautiful as Laurie Doherty and Carolyn Stackpole, I'm going back to school. They will teach at North Reading High.

Woodchips Personality Winners: Phyllis B. Spataro of Stoneham; John Palmer of Wilmington; Joan Marci, Jimmy and Angie Quinno, Joe Altavesta (former great Little League baseball coach); Tina Braceland of St. Margaret's Church in Burlington; Edmond Baratta, international radiation expert of Winchester; John Mullen, retired from Boston Edison and the father of eight children, who was afraid to come home from work and ask, "What's new?"; Warren Clement (who asked me if either of my parents were weight lifters because he said, "They sure raised a dumb-bell."); Nancy Murphy and Maureen Lanpher of Woburn; Tracy Heegan of Reading and James Beebe of Wakefield.

One of Frank Perdue's employees was found dead. The police suspect "fowl play". Will someone who is a "night owl" tell Bob Raleigh of Burlington and WBZ Radio from 1 to 5 a.m. that the Beachcomber has lost a lot of sleep trying to get through, but the line has been always busy. That's the reason they are putting a new "trunk line" at the zoo. The lions have been always busy. One of the zebras got a promotion — they gave it another "stripe". I saw five of the animals playing poker. "Why aren't you playing?" I asked one who was looking on. "They won't let me play because I'm a 'Cheetah'." One of the leopards was washed by a new employee who apparently used the wrong soap. The poor cat came out "spotless." To top the day off an ape was serenading his girl friend singing, "Girl-rella of My Dreams".

I met Bob Anderson (the genial night crew manager of the new Stop and Shop in Stoneham) and his lovely daughter, Christine, who is in the 4th grade. You know folks, we should be thankful for all the people who work throughout the night. We turn a water faucet and water pours out (someone is doing his or her job at the pumping station). Flip a switch and the room is bathed in a blaze of light (someone is on duty at the switching station). Firefighters, police, medical personnel, etc., etc. Woodchips salutes you all.

Well, folks, "Summer's gone and Winter 'draws' on." Yes, I wear them because when the "Montreal Express" comes down from Canada, it sure gets cold down at the beach. It's too bad that many of us have missed the beauty of nature not ever hearing the nocturnal chorus of frogs croaking or have never seen scintillating tiny lights of millions of fireflies. Their spectacular display rivals the glorious display of lights at Christmas time. I was fortunate to hear the frogs and see the fireflies almost every summer's night. It was when my family rented a beach cottage near Oak Island on the edge of a marsh near the Saugus River. This was indeed a veritable "Forest Primeval" we read about in our school books. Those happy carefree days of summer bring back memories of pleasures that money can't buy. Mary MacMaster's handsome Danny asked me, "Have you ever heard of 'Hertz Donuts'?" "No, I haven't." He then gave me a terrific punch on the shoulder and shouted, "Hertz, Donut?" Whistler came home from work one day and found his mother "off her rocker".

It doesn't matter which part of the world people live because everyone "smiles" in the same language. Kind words are never lost — they keep going from one person to another until they finally come back to you.

My wife, Kathy went to the beauty parlor last week and for three days she looked beautiful — then the mud fell off. My nephew, Dennis Tully asked, "Woodchipper, do you want your palm read?" "Sure," I said, "Why not?" I stuck out my hand and he swished across my palm with a brush full of red paint. If I catch him, Dennis will be Woburn's first astronaut.

Summer farewell

The days and months have swiftly passed
And soon we'll feel the wintry blast.
Where once the row of corn did grow,
Nature will sow her crop of snow.

Robins have come and said goodbye,
At night I've seen the geese fly high.
A harvest moon looks down below,
Guarding a trout stream's gentle flow.

It's Nature's way to tell us all
To listen for her clarion call.
The time has come for us to know,
That Summer's gone, with all its glow.

Have hope - for Summer will come again
For time like wheels will have no end.
Then geese and robins will say,
"Hello" And corn and flowers again will grow.

Kenya exhibition at Museum

Kenya — This East African country, the ultimate safari conjures up images of gazelles, giraffes, cheetahs, zebras, and other exotic wildlife that populate the treeless savannahs and dusty plains. Yet in this equatorial nation — where prehistoric man is thought to have emerged — live 20 million people of which very little is known.

concentrated mostly on the Pokot, a pastoral tribe scattered over the hills and plains of western Kenya and the highlands of Uganda. The colorful Pokot tribe was selected since their day-to-day activities were relatively untouched by the outside world, and whose traditions, some centuries old, were still a way of life.

"Tribal Traditions of Kenya," a multimedia exhibit highlighting the infinite cultural variety of this East African country, will offer a glimpse of life quite different from the world most Americans know. This comprehensive display of traditional, decorative, and contemporary art opens at the Boston Museum of Science on September 23, 1987 and runs through February 28, 1988.

The focus of the exhibit is the assemblage of artifacts and photographs from the private collection of Irene Sedgwick Briedis. Briedis, who worked as a photographer in Kenya with British ethnologist Dr. Jean Brown, collected these items in an effort to preserve Kenya's material culture before Western influence was felt.

For two years, 1972-1974, Brown and Briedis visited many Kenyan peoples to record traditional ways and collect material culture. Although they visited over 22 tribes, they

To help the visitor visualize the contrasting cultures, "Tribal Traditions of Kenya" will include: photographs, 30 contemporary Kenyan artworks from the collection of the Museum of the National Center of Afro-American Artists, and drawings by Kenyan children. There will be continuous showings of slide and video presentations illustrating the diverse geography, wildlife, people and the contrast between urban and rural Kenyan life. In addition, two interactive computer games that test the visitors' skills at Kenyan geography will also be part of the exhibit. Visitors will be able to try on authentic tribal jewelry and other tribal clothing, play an African stone game, explore a traditional Pokot hut, attend a contemporary Kenyan play or listen to six of the many languages spoken in Kenya. Special events will include Kenyan cooking demonstrations, authentic African storytelling, music and dance presentations.

LET US STAKE OUR REPUTATION IN YOUR YARD

THIS IS ONLY THE BEGINNING. When we put our sign in your yard we are putting our reputation on the line. This is just the beginning of our total marketing approach. We are geared to introduce your home to the first time buyer, the growing family "moving up" or the relocating executive. Our marketing program will be individually tailored to meet your selling needs. Just as every property is unique so are the buyers and sellers who come to us. Every marketing effort will be tailored to sell your home quickly with an eye on market conditions, economic times, advertising trends and our buyers' wants and needs.

SEEDS FOR SALE

Massachusetts Audubon Society sanctuaries throughout the state announce their sale of reasonably priced, high quality bird seed and feeders and gift giving. Mass. Audubon will be accepting orders before October 9 for Bird Seed Day 1987, which takes place during the first weekend in November (this year, Saturday, November 7).

Attracting birds to your backyard in winter is a fascinating hobby. Typically, as many as 10 species of birds regularly visit northeast feeders throughout the winter months.

Unlike some commercially produced mixes, Massachusetts Audubon offers high quality bird seed prepared to attract a wide variety of birds which oftentimes go unseen without a feeder nearby. Thistle seed attracts small finches in particular. Cracked corn will bring pheasants, doves and sparrows. Chickadees, titmice, nuthatches, mockingbirds, grosbeaks, cardinals, juncos and small finches all like our special sunflower blend. People enjoy feeding birds as a means of heightening their awareness and sensitivity to wildlife and the environment.

BOSTON EXOTIC CAR EXPO

Nostalgia buffs old enough to remember the 1957 Ford Thunderbird and auto enthusiasts who recognize its classic lines will be in their element at Boston Exotic Car Expo '87, the largest display of classic replica sports cars in the country and the first of its kind in the east.

The show will feature more than 100 exotic replica automobiles on display and for sale by about 60 manufacturers of component cars. The wide variety of models will include classic T-Birds, Corvettes, MGs, Lamborghini, Mercedes, Ferrari, Bugatti, Porsche, Sebring, Cobra and more.

Boston Exotic Car Expo '87 is produced by the Specialty

Automotive Manufacturer's Association. Show hours are Friday, Oct. 2, 5 to 11 p.m.; Saturday, Oct. 3, 10 a.m. to 10 p.m.; and Sunday, Oct. 4, 10 a.m. to 6 p.m. General admission is $5.50 for adults; $1.50 for children 6-12; and free for children under 6. The Bayside Exposition Center is easily accessible by car off Exit 15 of the Southeast Expressway or by the MBTA's Red Line JFK/UMass stop.

HEATING OIL SAVINGS

The Boston Fuel Consortium (BFC), a membership cooperative for heating oil consumers, offers substantial savings on heating oil to residents of over 60 cities and towns in Greater Boston and Lowell. A non-profit organization now entering its sixth year, BFC has grown to over 2,600 members. This volume of membership has enabled BFC to negotiate discount oil prices for members, taking advantage of the combined buying power of a large group of thrifty consumers.

Last year the price of oil to BFC members averaged 15 cents per gallon below retail, saving a household consuming 1,000 gallons a total of $150. Businesses and large users save even more. The BFC price is pegged to the wholesale price, ensuring a reliable savings to members. This feature is very important when the wholesale price drops as it did last February, and other retailers did not lower their price. BFC members know that their price will immediately reflect changes in the wholesale price.

Membership in the Boston Fuel Consortium is open to homeowners, tenants, landiards, fuel assistance recipients, businesses, non-profit organizations, and anyone who heats with oil. There are no income guidelines or membership fees to join. The BFC office is located at 670 Centre Street, Jamaica Plain, Ma. 02130. Interested persons may call 524-3950 for more information.

From oil to seeds, from the "folk dance of America" to an affordable classic, COMING ATTRACTIONS has a little something for everyone. But we miss a few (a lot) and could use your help in publicizing events of interest to all. If you have knowledge of same, write, care of this local newspaper and tell all about it. We enjoy and look forward to your comments and tips.
